

Navy Identifies Missing Pilots

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon on Wednesday night identified the two Navy pilots officially listed as missing after their planes were shot down in the attack on North Viet Nam targets Tuesday.

They are:
Lt. (j.g.) Everett Alvarez Jr., 26, whose wife is Tangee Alvarez, 1203 Madrona Ave., San Jose, Calif. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Everett Alvarez, 2168 Behamon Drive, Santa Clara, Calif. He was the pilot of an A-4E plane flying from the carrier Constellation.

Lt. (j.g.) Richard C. Sather, 26, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Christian Sather, 339 West McKinley, Pomona, Calif. He was piloting an A-1H attack plane from the Constellation.

Attack Aircraft Are Identified

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four types of Navy carrier-based attack planes were used in the air strike against North Vietnamese patrol boats and their bases, the Pentagon said Wednesday.

Three are jet-powered attack planes and one is propeller-driven.

The jets are the F-4E Crusader, the F-4B Phantom II and the A-4E Skyhawk.

The propeller-driven A-1H Skyraider is used because of its heavy load-carrying ability, combined with range and ability to remain longer over a target.

The two planes lost in the strike were an A-4E jet and an A-1H Skyraider.

The carriers Ticonderoga and Constellation, from which the air strike was launched, also operate several other types, including interceptors and reconnaissance aircraft, but which were not used in Tuesday's attack.

Miners, Families Are Reunited

CHAMPAIGN, France (AP) — The nine miners rescued from the Mt. River limestone mine returned to their families Wednesday night, while drillers continued efforts to locate any of the other five missing miners who might still be alive.

Foreman Andre Martinet, one of the nine rescued after eight days imprisonment in the collapsed mine, said he and his companions were ready to return to help search for those still trapped.

Feeble tapping sounds believed from one or two of the missing five were picked up by electronic listening devices last week. Mayor Andre Socie reported new sounds were heard Wednesday, but rescuers at the scene denied this.

Salinger Sworn In As Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate heard today Republican objections Wednesday and voted to seat former White House press secretary Pierre Salinger as Democratic senator from California, at least temporarily.

Salinger, after waiting out more than two hours of debate over the legality of his appointment by California Gov. Edmund G. Brown, stepped from the wings and was sworn in. He was named to fill the five remaining months of the term of the late Democratic Sen. Clair Engle, who died last Thursday of a brain tumor.

Veto Powers In Poverty Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — House leaders proposed Wednesday giving governors broad veto powers over federal projects instituted under the administration's $962.5-million antipoverty bill.

Rep. Phil M. Landrum, D-Ga., floor manager of the bill, disclosed his intention to increase state control over the program as debate on the controversial measure opened.

Emotional Selling Hits Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The worst wave of emotional selling since the Kennedy assassination engulfed the stock market Wednesday but prices rebounded vigorously on the strong stand taken by President Johnson in the Viet Nam crisis.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which had been down as much as 8.50 at the end of the first hour, closed with a small advance of .28 at 833.05.

Volume rose to 6.21 million shares from 4.79 million Tuesday.

Navy Blasts 4 Torpedo Bases; China Attacks US 'Aggression'

2 U. S. Planes

Downed, 2 Damaged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States delivered a flaming blow at North Viet Nam's PT boat armada Wednesday — then cautioned Red China not to make this retaliatory strike an excuse for starting a big war.

As President Johnson put in a solemn speech at Syracuse, N.Y.:

"To anyone who may be tempted to support — or to widen — the present aggression, I say this: There is no threat to any peaceful power from the United States of America."

"But there can be no peace by aggression and no immunity from reply."

Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara was grim faced as he summarized for newsmen the swift havoc dealt out to the Red attack boats, their North Viet Nam bases, and a big oil storage depot in retaliation for two attacks on U.S. destroyers in the Gulf of Tonkin.

In 64 sorties, U.S. Navy planes, he said, destroyed or damaged about 25 patrol boats, heavily damaged four torpedo bases, and wrecked an oil depot capable of storing 10 per cent of North Viet Nam's petroleum. Smoke from the storage tanks mounted 14,000 feet into the air.

The cost to the American force, which struck from aircraft carriers, was two U.S. planes shot down by anti-aircraft fire, with their pilots presumed lost, and two other planes damaged, McNamara said.

On the other hand, North Viet Nam said that five U.S. aircraft had been shot down and three others damaged. It said one American pilot was taken prisoner.

Both the President and McNamara indicated that no further strikes were planned against North Viet Nam, but McNamara warned:

"Whether this will be all that is necessary is up to the North Vietnamese."

U. S. Buildup

A massive buildup of U.S. force in Southeast Asia was in progress in case the Communists launch new aggressive thrusts. For one thing six supersonic Delta Dagger jets, carrying missiles, arrived in Saigon, South Viet Nam, and went on 24-hour alert.

Congress leaders meantime prepared to rush through, perhaps Thursday, a resolution endorsing Johnson's policy that:

"Aggression unchallenged is aggression unleashed."

And the United States moved swiftly to lay explanations of its action before the Security Council of the United Nations, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

However, the Soviet Union, though bitterly at odds with the Peking regime, attacked what it called hostile acts by the United States toward North Viet Nam and Communist China.

A statement by the Soviet news agency Tass said the presence of U.S. ships and planes in the Gulf of Tonkin was "absolutely unjustified."

"Competent Soviet circles resolutely denounce the aggressive actions of the United States in the Gulf of Tonkin which lead to a dangerous exacerbation of the situation in Southeast Asia," it added.

Tass said, "One cannot consider that the new American military actions are undertaken under the conditions when reactionary forces in the United States and the South Vietnamese military forces, who are obeying their will, are persistently clamoring for extending the sphere of American intervention and military operations to the Democratic Republic of (North) Viet Nam."

Denounce Aggression

Soviet authoritative circles resolutely denounce the aggressive actions of the United States in the Gulf of Tonkin which has led to a dangerous heating of the situation in Southeast Asia which is tense enough already," the Tass statement said.

Trux, in a statement, said party unity in the state would be symbolized to the state and nation by a Republican leadership conference here Friday at which vice presidential candidate William Miller will speak.

HARRISBURG (AP) — Republican State Chairman Craig Trux said Wednesday the party in Pennsylvania, "guided by Gov. Scranton's leadership... is solidly united behind every candidate from legislator to president."

Trux, in a statement, said party unity in the state would be symbolized to the state and nation by a Republican leadership conference here Friday at which vice presidential candidate William Miller will speak.

He said, "There is no reason to think our conventional capabilities will not be sufficient."

Asked if he foresaw intervention by Red China or Russia, McNamara said he did not know, but: "We are prepared for any action they may take."

However, he commented, "we seek no wider war."

If further attacks are made by the Vietnamese Communists, "our response will be firm and limited and relative" to the degree of aggression.

Lyndon B. Johnson

Mac Says Air Raids A Success

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara reported Wednesday "very successful" results in air strikes against North Viet Nam targets.

Reconnaissance flights over the targets confirmed initial reports of success, McNamara said.

In a CBS television interview, McNamara said the reconnaissance planes encountered no anti-aircraft fire, such as shot down two of the attacking planes Tuesday and damaged a third.

One Plane Damaged

McNamara, who earlier had reported that two planes were damaged, said Wednesday night only one had been damaged, in very minor fashion.

This plane, landed at the South Viet Nam air base near Da Nang, he said.

Told of North Vietnamese claims of capturing an American pilot, McNamara said "that is possible."

One of the lost planes may have landed in North Viet Nam, he said. He indicated the second plane was lost at sea.

The reconnaissance flights were made by planes from the carriers Ticonderoga and Constellation, from which the strike against Red patrol boats and their bases were launched earlier.

McNamara said "we were attacking isolated marine facilities so there were very few civilian casualties."

In answer to a question, he said North Viet Nam cities would be bombed only as a last resort.

Asked whether use of nuclear weapons might be needed, he said:

"There is no reason to think our conventional capabilities will not be sufficient."

Asked if he foresaw intervention by Red China or Russia, McNamara said he did not know, but: "We are prepared for any action they may take."

However, he commented, "we seek no wider war."

If further attacks are made by the Vietnamese Communists, "our response will be firm and limited and relative" to the degree of aggression.

Communists Say U.S. 'Over Brink Of War'

TOKYO (AP) — Red China, said Thursday that "aggression by the United States against the Democratic Republic of North Viet Nam means aggression against China." It declared "U.S. imperialism" had gone "over the brink of war."

In a reaction to the U.S. bombing of torpedo boat bases in North Viet Nam, an official statement broadcast by Peking said: "The Chinese people will absolutely not sit idly by without lending a helping hand" to prevent North Viet Nam from being "subjected to aggression."

An earlier statement by Peking's official New China News Agency charged that President Johnson ordered the bombings "to enhance his position" in the U.S. presidential election and "to spread the flames of war to the northern part of Viet Nam."

The latest official statement was expected, since Red China has been supporting the guerrilla warfare in South Viet Nam by funneling supplies to North Viet Nam by land and via the Gulf of Tonkin.

Red China recently warned foreign ships to stay out of the gulf, where two U.S. destroyers were attacked by North Vietnamese PT boats early this week.

The latest statement said "the situation is one of utmost gravity" but there was no reference to what sort of action Peking planned to take, if any. The wording followed the pattern of numerous Communist Chinese threats of the past.

Debt of Blood

"The debt of blood incurred by the United States to the Vietnamese people must be repaid," the statement said.

U.S.-Reds Clash In U. N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States told the world Wednesday it struck a retaliatory blow against North Viet Nam to head off Communist conquest of Southeast Asia through a pattern of terror and assassination.

U.S. Chief Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson made the statement at an urgent session of the U.N. Security Council. The session was asked by the United States to consider the burgeoning crisis in Southeast Asia provoked by North Viet Nam attacks on U.S. warships in the Gulf of Tonkin and a counterblow by the United States.

The Soviet Union countered with a resolution proposing that the council invite delegates from North Viet Nam to take part in its deliberations. This appeared to be a delaying tactic.

The resolution called also on the council president to establish contact with North Viet Nam in order to obtain its version of the events in the Gulf of Tonkin.

Stevenson declared that the actions of the North Vietnamese in the Gulf of Tonkin "make no sense whatsoever standing alone. They defy rational explanation except as part of a larger pattern with a larger purpose."

Emphasizing again that "the United States intends no rashness and seeks no wider war," Johnson told Congress that with a political campaign coming up there is additional reason for the resolution he requested.

Johnson sent the message to Congress on returning from Syracuse, N.Y., where he made a speech saying: "Let no friend needlessly fear — and no foe vainly hope — that this is a nation divided in this election year."

Two Bodies Identified As Missing Rights Workers

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — With its six weeks search for the bodies ended, the FBI Wednesday hunted the killers of three civil rights workers.

The relentless 44-day search closed Tuesday when three decomposed bodies were dug out of an earthen watershed dam near Philadelphia, Miss.

A pathologist said all three were shot to death.

Poisonous Snakes

The dam is about six miles from Philadelphia in the thickly wooded, often swampy back country of Neshoba County — an area infested with poisonous water moccasins and rattlers.

An official, who asked not to be identified, said bullets were recovered from all three bodies.

In New York, James Farmer, national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, called the slayings "a triple lynching." He praised the FBI's work.

The discovery, though expected, was chilling for many civil rights workers in Mississippi. However, leaders vowed the work would be carried on.

"It proves to me that we have people in Mississippi that will destroy a person, not because of his color, but because of what the person stands for," said Sue Brown, 18, of Meridian, Miss.

Two of the dead, both definitely identified, were white. They were Andrew Goodman, 20, and Michael Schwerner, 24, both of New York City.

They disappeared near Philadelphia June 21, along with a Negro companion, James Chaney, 21, of Meridian.

The third body dug from the red clay of the dam was that of a Negro. However, officials said dental and fingerprint records had not arrived to aid in positive identification.

To the end, many Mississippi whites contended the disappearance was a hoax. It was freely predicted the three would be found alive.

The Birmingham News, in a copyright story from Philadelphia, said a $30,000 reward brought in the information that led the FBI to the bodies.

7 Leads

The news also said the FBI was given the names of seven persons possibly involved in the slayings.

Roy K. Moore, special agent in charge of the FBI office in Jackson, said the find was the result of "a thorough, complete, methodical, painstaking operation. There was nothing haphazard or lucky about it."

Moore declined comment on the news story.

Sheriff Lawrence Rainey hustled back to Philadelphia from his vacation after the bodies were found. But he said he didn't know much about what was going on.

"The FBI doesn't tell me any more than they tell anybody else," he said.

Chief Deputy Sheriff Cecil Price was the last man known to have seen the three men alive.

Price told newsmen recently that he and others had been questioned repeatedly.

Speeding Charge

The deputy arrested the three civil rights workers on a speeding charge at Philadelphia on June 21. They were held for six hours, then released on bond at about 11 p.m. Price said he escorted their car out of town.

Stroud Okays Nauman's Plot Plan

STROUDSBURG — Stroud Twp. supervisors last night approved a plot plan submitted by C. A. Nauman of Anabonink. Nauman is planning a home development at the junction of Rt. 191 and Rt. 417 (Creek Rd.).

The supervisors also approved three ordinances which accepted nine roads under township control.

Ordinance 77 accepted Christopher St., Lourdes Ave., Seasmore Dr., Pleasant View Dr., Westbury Dr., and Hollis Dr.

Ordinance 78 accepted Camelot Dr. and Lancelot Dr., and Ordinance 79 accepted Woodside Dr.

In other business, the supervisors approved bills for July of $5,961.41 in the State Account and $12,080.89 in the township account.

Police Chief H. W. Tebbis reported a theft of girls swimming suits at the Knight of Columbus Park. The suits were recovered. He also reported a disturbance at Blue Mt. Camp. Four boys were trying to enter the girls dorm. One boy was caught and turned over to the probation officer.

Tebbis also investigated a complaint from a mother that her son, age 17, threatened to kill her and set fire to a sofa in their home. He received a call from the Bangor police stating the same boy was wanted for theft of a car in Bangor. The car was located. The youth was committed to Monroe County Jail to await Easton State Police.

Senate Committee Approves $450,000 For Tocks Island

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Appropriations Committee approved Wednesday $450,000 to continue planning the Tocks Island Dam on the Delaware River in New Jersey and Pennsylvania during the current fiscal year.

This was reported by Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., a committee member, who noted the House approved the same amount earlier this year.

The dam above Delaware Water Gap would back up a reservoir almost to Port Jervis, N.Y. Legislation is pending to create a national recreation area around the reservoir.

Other funds approved for Pennsylvania (House figure in parentheses):

Construction—Allegheny River Reservoir, Pennsylvania and New York, $27,000,000 (same); Blanchard Reservoir $1,000,000 (same); Butler $762,000 (same); Curwensville Reservoir $3,200,000 (same); Dam 4, Monongahela River, $2,500,000 (same); Elkland $800,000 (same); Laroche $300,000 (same); Maxwell Locks and Dam, Monongahela River, $3,500,000 (same); Shenango River Reservoir, Ohio and Pennsylvania, $11,300,000 (same); Turtle Creek $4,500,000 (same);

State News Roundup

Republicans Plan Strategy Rally

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania Republican leaders will hold a combination strategy session and pep rally here Friday for the fall election campaign.

Headlining the afternoon's activities at a downtown hotel will be an address by Rep. William Miller of New York, the Republican candidate for vice president.

Miller, former GOP national chairman, will speak at 3:30 p.m. before a meeting of the party's 67 county chairmen who have been summoned to the session designed to unite the party behind presidential candidate Barry Goldwater.

PUC Gives Bell Rate Reduction

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Public Utility Commission told the Bell Telephone Co. Tuesday it may reduce the annual rates of some 8,100 subscribers across the state beginning Aug. 11.

The PUC said the reductions would affect 6,270 customers in the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh suburban exchanges and would be effective on various dates after Aug. 11.

The decreases resulted from broadened base areas, elimination or reduction of mileage charges and removal of tolls, the PUC said.

9 Legislative Studies Approved

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Joint State Government Commission authorized nine new legislative studies Tuesday.

Rep. Baker Royer, R-Lancaster, said the studies approved by the commission's executive committee at the request of the 1964 General Assembly were:

Cigarette sales to minors, school bus law, escheat laws, laws relating to manufacturers of canned heat, state universities for Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, traffic violation citations, emergency truck braking systems, decedents' estates law and Sanitary Water Board.

Pa. Manual Chief Resigns Post

HARRISBURG (AP) — An official in the Property and Supplies Department said Tuesday that the editor and assistant editor of the Pennsylvania Manual had resigned.

David (Casey) Stine of Altoona, editor of the Manual and publisher for the department, quit his $7,407-a-year post July 22. His assistant, Joy Crouse of Washington County, stepped down from her $5,803 job two days later.

Arthur F. Sampson, deputy secretary of property and supplies, said neither gave a reason for resigning. He said replacements were being sought from other state departments.

Reapportionment Bill Favored

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton said Wednesday he favors the U.S. bill to delay for two years implementation of a U.S. Supreme Court decision that state legislatures be reapportioned strictly on population lines.

"I think this kind of legislation would be helpful," the governor said at a news conference, explaining it would give time for clarification of the court's "one-man, one-vote" ruling.

The governor said he did not believe that the two-year holding action would become permanent.

Judge Lowers Bail Of Two Women

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Superior Court Judge Gerald F. Flood Tuesday reduced the $50,000 bail set for two women arrested in connection with a robbery of a home in the city's Wynfield section.

Judge Flood reduced bail to $30,000 for Mrs. Mildred McDowell, 35, who police say has a record of 19 previous arrests, and to $25,000 for Mrs. Ruth Miller, 35.

N-Physicist Dead At 38

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — Samuel P. McCollom, 38, of suburban Glen Summit, a nuclear physicist at the Foster Wheeler Corporation's Mountaintop plant died Tuesday at his home after being stricken with a heart attack. McCollom was manager of nuclear contract engineering at the Mountaintop plant.

Scranton Against State Extremist Plank

By JACK LYNCH
Associated Press Writer
HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton said Wednesday there is no need for planks on extremist groups and stronger support of the new civil rights law in the state platform being prepared by Republicans for the fall election campaign.

The governor, who fought strenuously and unsuccessfully for such planks in the national GOP platform, said the two issues "have no direct relevance here in this state."

At his first Capitol news conference since his unsuccessful bid for the Republican presidential nomination, Scranton said extremist groups are not a problem in the state and that the new civil rights law already had been covered by state statutes.

Asked specifically whether there was any infiltration of the state GOP organization of extremist groups, Scranton said: "I've seen no sign of it."

The governor, lanned from a two-week post-convention vacation, was in good humor.

He laughed when the question of his presidential ambitions was brought up, saying: "I'm just concentrating on 1964."

The question had been posed repeatedly at almost every weekly news conference in the last year. Wednesday, it came up once and it was passed over quickly.

Only a dozen Capitol newsmen attended Wednesday's conference. Before he entered the meetings frequently were attended by as many as 50 newsmen, including reporters from out of state newspapers and broadcasting media.

He thanked the newsmen who accompanied him on his 33-day whirlwind tour that covered 25,000 miles and touched 26 states.

"I appreciate very much the cooperation and reporting job you did," he said.

Scranton's comments on extremism came in the wake of reports that the proposed state platform followed a rift between Republican moderates and the conservative wing of the GOP headed by presidential candidate Barry Goldwater.

The governor said he could not speculate on the outcome of the Hershey meeting called by Goldwater.

Scranton, who will be host at the session, said he believed it was being held in Pennsylvania because Goldwater thought it would be more convenient for former president Dwight D. Eisenhower, who lives at Gettysburg.

U. S. Retaliation
The governor commented briefly on the U.S. retaliation against North Viet Nam, whose torpedo boats twice attacked American warships.

He said he did not know the details, but added that President Johnson's orders are "good, effective and proper steps."

However, he added, the U.S. involvement in South Viet Nam would be a national campaign issue because of "past actions which have lead up to this."

In other developments: Chester racial situation — The governor said a state police report on allegations of police brutality in the Chester race riots in April is due Sept. 1.

He expressed pleasure that committees working on Chester's problems "are making a great effort."

Legislature — Scranton indicated he will not call a special legislative session to consider House and Senate reappointment because the state still has a reappointment suit pending before the U.S. Supreme Court.

"I don't think we should be considering a special session at this time," said Scranton.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ordered a number of other states to reappoint their legislators in more strict accord with population distribution.

Movement of state agencies — Remaining agencies, the governor here, nor said.

Harrisburg, he said, "is the state capital, and should have the priority of state functions candidates in Pittsburgh Aug. 17-18.

A meeting of Republican gov- ernors and GOP gubernatorial- the priority of state functions candidates in Pittsburgh Aug. 17-18.

New High Bidder For Area Village

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Federal Housing Administration yesterday announced a new high bid of $436,300 for Tobyhanna Village and apparently nullified a bid of $430,125 submitted by two Monroe County men.

Pen Argyl Man Hurt In Crash

PEN ARGYL — Raymond Shafer, 24, of 408 George St., Pen Argyl, suffered cuts of the face when the car in which he was riding overturned on Rt. 191, about a half mile south of Nazareth early yesterday.

Callaway Retires As Correspondent

HONESDALE, Pa. (AP)—Edwin Callaway retired Monday as Associated Press Correspondent for Wayne County, Pa., after more than half a century of collecting news for the wire service.

Callaway, 87, city editor of the Independent, a tri-weekly newspaper, became AP correspondent in 1912.

Over the years he has covered numerous stories for the wire service but he declined to designate one as his biggest saying: "I covered all the news as a newspaper man should."

Krawitz of Stroudsburg and Aubrey Price of Blakeslee was the highest received and the two men would be awarded the mortgage on the 200-apartment complex, near the Tobyhanna Army Depot.

The new high, submitted by Dr. Gabriel Elias of Warminster, was accepted on the grounds it had been in the mail at the time of Tuesday morning's bid opening.

Originally the Krawitz-Price bid was successful over three others submitted. Melvin E. Solomon of East Stroudsburg, RD 3 — representing six local men — was the only other county man to enter a bid. He bid $425,500.

Dr. Elias said he planned to rehabilitate the units. He said he and several associates have operated a number of similar projects throughout the country.

Largest of these in this area is Warminster Heights formerly Lacey Park, in Bucks County, a converted World War II housing project. About 5,000 persons live there.

Man, Wife Held In Slaying
NEW YORK (AP) — A husband and wife were held without bail yesterday in the strange triangle slaying of a married electronics engineer. The victim apparently was trying to end an illicit love affair that began at an office Christmas party last December.

The accused husband, Charles Fazio, 30, spent seven years in a mental institution for the 1952 slaying of a teen-aged youth. He was released in 1959.

associates bid on the property as an investment.

"We plan to rehabilitate it and make it more attractive to tenants," he said.

The F.H.A. had taken the property over because the previous owner had defaulted on mortgage payments.

The property was built in the early fifties at a cost of $1,600,000 and subject to an F.H.A. mortgage. Several owners have held title to the land in recent years.

The F.H.A. required a minimum bid of $425,000 on the property Tuesday and is willing to take a $400,000 first mortgage on the 14, two-story buildings.

Driver, 60, Falls Asleep, Car Strikes Utility Pole

FERN RIDGE — A 60-year-old Hazleton man escaped serious injury in a one-car crash yesterday at 3 a.m. on Rt. 209 one and a half miles east of Brodheadsville.

Robert Brogan, the motorist, was treated for cuts of the mouth.

According to State Police at Fern Ridge, Brogan, apparently fell asleep at the wheel when the vehicle went off the road and struck a utility pole owned by the Commonwealth Telephone Co. of Bangor.

About $500 damage was estimated to Brogan's car which was towed from the scene. Damage was estimated at $110 to the utility pole.

There are more miles of highways in Pennsylvania than in any other eastern state.

Explanation Needed

The public deserves a better explanation of the expense account padding accusation against Jury Commissioner Forrest Graves than it has received from the county commissioners and Graves himself.

Jury Commissioner Leon Keller accused Graves last Thursday of claiming pay for four days work which Keller said Graves did not work. Keller's remarks, the commissioners' questions and his answers were heard in open meeting.

Graves was not present to defend himself. The commissioners asked him to their Monday meeting.

His answers to the commissioners, and the questions they asked him could not be reported in this newspaper because the commissioners and their solicitor decided that the meeting would be held in closed session without reporters present.

It is clearly unfair to Graves, Keller and the taxpayers who are paying their expenses to hear charges against Graves in open meeting and then to have questions and answers between the commissioners and Graves behind closed doors.

In statements last Thursday and Monday after the closed meeting, Graves emphatically denied Keller's charges.

He said he had worked after Keller and the jury commissioners' clerk had quit and on a Saturday. But Keller said they left at the same time.

The conflicting stories still stand and the public is still confused, although all three commissioners said after talking with Graves that they were satisfied with his answers to the charge.

The commissioners may be satisfied that nothing is wrong and that proper explanation has been made. Graves may have been unfairly accused. But how is the public to judge the case with the same certainty when it does not have all the facts?

Has Graves' claim that he was seen by various people while he was working extra hours been carefully verified? What steps have been taken to keep closer watch on the expense payments by the county to the jury commissioners?

The operations of the jury commissioners in the selection of juries are a vital part of the process of fair trial and justice in Monroe County. They should be beyond reproach.

And again, why should an accusation be heard in open session and the answer to that accusation be heard in closed session? Such procedure is hard to justify on any ground.

Orchestra In The Poconos

The Philadelphia Orchestra will come back to the Poconos next Tuesday and Wednesday for two outdoor concerts under the stars at Fred Waring's Shawnee Inn by the Delaware River.

The Pocono Art Center, which is trying to establish a permanent summer music festival and year round program for all the arts at its 42-acre Mt. Nebo Dell, hopes to attract about 4,000 people to each concert.

The art center expects many of these listeners to come from Pocono Mountain resorts and camps. But just as many may come from surrounding communities of Easton, Allentown, Hazleton, Wilkes-Barre, Scranton and the Pike County-Port Jervis area.

The setting for the concerts was moved from the Mt. Nebo Dell art center site because road construction has blocked the entrance. But the Shawnee Inn setting, with the orchestra playing from the Delaware River toward Mt. Nebo, could not be more beautiful.

The Philadelphia Orchestra is one of the best orchestras in the world. It is beginning its 65th season with these concerts in the Poconos. The music could not be more beautiful.

The Pocono Art Center now has a site, a music pavilion plan, and an executive director who said when he left his position as manager of the Philadelphia Orchestra that he believed the Pocono Mountain resort area could support one of the finest music and art centers in America.

That is a very practical dream. But it needs the support of Pocono Mountain residents, summer visitors, and resort operators if it is to become a reality.

These two concerts, coming about a year after the successful first concert in the East Stroudsburg High School auditorium, are another major test of community support for a permanent summer music festival.

We believe it is one of the finest attractions the Pocono Mountains could offer to visitors. We hope the concerts next Tuesday and Wednesday night will be fully supported and attended.

Comment Of The Day

"If I believe in something I will fight for it with all I have. But I do not demand all or nothing."

"Professional liberals want the fiery debate. They glory in defeat, a sort of political masochism."

"The hardest job for a politician today is to have the courage to be a moderate. It is easy to take an extreme position."

—Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, leading candidate for the vice presidential nomination on the Democratic ticket.

The Pennsylvania Story

Listless State Election

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — Indications are growing that the upcoming Johnson-Goldwater campaign will be one of the most listless presidential campaigns to be waged in Pennsylvania in many a year.

The general consensus around Capitol Hill is that the Keystone State Republicans "shot their bolt" last month at the Republican National Convention in San Francisco in the abortive and frantic Scranton presidential bid — and that the bolt went too far into San Francisco Bay for recovery.

Unquestionably had Mr. Scranton emerged successful in his presidential bid — or even wound up in second place on the national ticket — the presidential scramble in Pennsylvania this fall would have been torrid, to express it mildly.

All this now has gone by the board.

And with Mr. Scranton out of the picture, the presidential hunt-puff — insofar as the Keystone State is concerned — returns to the normal orbit of any presidential; just another state in the contest.

Added to this "another state" status however is the highly negotiating additive this year of the inescapable fact that Mr. Goldwater was not a popular candidate to begin with insofar as Pennsylvania Republicans were concerned.

Except in extremely few isolated instances, there have been no great fires burning in his behalf — and there are not now.

On top of this, the insult-to-injury stance assumed by Mr. Goldwater (in the eyes of the Republican Scranton hierarchy) in his refusal to capitulate on a single Scranton policy or ideological point after Mr. Scranton's ungainly back-barry speech, has irked the daylight out of Scranton devotees.

Then too, working against Pennsylvania Republicans this year is the conviction among many that no candidate could possibly beat Mr. Johnson this year — so why harp to the high skies for a sure loser anyway?

Indications are indeed that the campaign — insofar as the presidency is concerned — will be comparatively quiet this year, in this state at least.

Of course there will be the usual token support of the Goldwater candidacy on the part of Republicans, but the point is, it is not expected to take the vibrant form it has in years past. There just isn't that much zip, zest and conviction left in Pennsylvania's GOP leadership.

Additionally, there is a very strong ink against the Goldwater bloc on the part of Scranton Republicans themselves — and at the moment they are calling the shots in the GOP arena in Pennsylvania!

Tacit support — yes; vibrant campaigning in behalf of Mr. Goldwater — no.

Where does this then leave the local Republican candidates for office this year?

For the most part they will be found campaigning on strictly local issues and statewide issues.

Expected to be missing this year will be anything approaching large scale presidential coalition riding on the part of GOP candidates seeking congressional and state legislative seats or the statewide offices of Auditor General and State Treasurer.

This year for Pennsylvania Republicans, they'll be going it pretty much on their own.

Pennsylvania Democrats? That's a horse of another color. In the Keystone State this year their one big hope lies in presidential coalition riding almost exclusively!

This could be the year of the big switch for them!

Moon Shots Big Letdown

Anxiously we awaited the pictures of the United States' flying cameraman, The Ranger. Maybe we expected too much. But for 25 million dollars we did expect more than the usual girlie peek show.

The scientists, gloating over their points, didn't exactly enthrall the audience at the Pasadena, Calif., playhouse. Excuse us, we mean the conservatory.

The video cameras shut around the room and one girl appeared asleep. A few onlookers had reached the yawning stage. Even the questions asked were not first-class—those you'd expect at a conference of this magnitude.

However, Dr. Pickering and his associates loved it all. Perhaps it was the first time they were in the limelight. After all the Keystone Cops had more film experience. Somehow, though, they reminded us of the comedians of long ago. Honestly we couldn't project ourselves into the seriousness of the "first pictures of the moon." All the time the good doctor was describing a shot we expected a sign or a businessette to show the Russians had already landed there.

It was nice to see the creators and learn man can land on a spot it will take three years to make sure of its solidness. It was nice, too, to know that the cross-like figures on the pictures were not Russian planes observing our picture-taking.

Some folks got real excited over our latest magic eye into the unknown. Maybe they are 100 per cent right and we're 100 per cent wrong. But the more the doctors lauded the efforts of their colleagues to pin-point the money was worth the effort, the more we took on a Cyclops look.

The Allen-Scott Report

Wheat Re-Export

Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — Large amounts of the U.S. wheat sold to Russia, presumably to ease a critical grain shortage, are being used by the Kremlin to bolster its fraying grip on disaffected satellites — with the official sanction of the U.S. A graphic illustration of this extraordinary backstage policy is the Commerce Department's authorization of the Soviet's "re-export" of 160,000 metric tons of U.S. wheat to Rumania. Value of this grain is more than $12.5 million, and it is approximately one-tenth of the total sold to Russia last year.

Explanation for this unpublized transaction is that the 160,000 tons of U.S. grain were in repayment for a Rumanian "loan" of 400,000 tons to the Soviet.

That's what Representative Glenard Lipscomb, R-Calif., member of the powerful Appropriations Committee, was informed when he uncovered this affair and began asking blunt questions. He discovered it while studying a Commerce Department report titled "Export Licenses Approved and Reexportations Authorized."

In a series of sharp inquiries, Lipscomb cited the glaring "ironic contradiction" in the department's action.

On one hand, the State Department is assiduously wooing Rumania with trade and other offers to encourage it to pursue a more independent course toward the Kremlin. At the same time, the Commerce Department is aiding Russia to retain a firm hold on the dissenting satellite.

"The Commerce Department complied with almost miraculous speed in issuing the necessary re-export authorization," pointed out Lipscomb. "There are strong indications that an informal okay was actually given by the Department soon after such permission was sought by the Soviet. Thus, not content with bailing the USSR out of its agricultural morass, it appears that the administration has helped Khrushchev make good on a wheat debt to Rumania."

"This has helped to strengthen Soviet-Rumanian economic ties and runs directly counter to the administration's professed policy of encouraging less satellite reliance on the USSR. What makes this action all the more ironical, is that it came at the same time the Department of State was negotiating with the Rumanians for expanding trade and diplomatic relations."

"In essence, therefore, the same Rumanian 'independence' the administration cites in claiming justification for granting highly significant trade benefits is being undermined by policies which bolster Soviet-Rumanian ties. Certainly here is a classic example of what could be called talking out of both sides of one's mouth at the same time."

More unanswered questions — Neither the State nor Commerce department has answered Representative Lipscomb's caustic blast.

So far as they are concerned, they are obviously proceeding on the basis of "the less said the better." This seems particularly the case in replying to three highly pertinent questions the young Californian has raised, as follows: — "How real was the need for wheat in the Soviet if they can afford to trans-ship an amount as large as this to a satellite?"

— "Since the wheat we sold to Russia was subsidized grain — which means the American people paid a significant part of the total — is the Soviet making a profit on this 're-export' to Rumania, a profit on an investment by American taxpayers?"

— "Is this another attempt by the administration to get around the demands of the American maritime unions? These unions, against tremendous federal pressure, took a firm stand that 50 per cent of the vessels which shipped the wheat to Russia should be American bottoms. Is this the way the administration is trying to get around the demands of our workers most seriously affected by this affair?"

These forcefully relevant questions remain unanswered. Lipscomb vigorously contends "the security and integrity of the nation" require a prompt and full answer, but none has been forthcoming — and isn't likely to be.

Senator Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., member of the foreign relations Committee, has joined Lipscomb in assailing this transaction. Dodd declared he was "amazed to discover" that the Commerce Department had authorized the "re-export" without ascertaining its terms. "The Department could not tell me," said Dodd, "whether the Soviet had charged Rumania more than it had paid the U.S. or less. I believe that the Department owes Congress and the American people a full explanation of this disturbing development."

Dear Abby

Topless Suits Bother Mother

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When I first heard about the topless bathing suits for women I thought it was just a lot of talk. But yesterday I was shopping in one of our finest department stores, and I actually SAW one for sale. Is it possible that our American women would even consider wearing a topless swim suit in public? If so, we have indeed reached the lowest point in our so-called civilization. Even lower than the decadence which preceded the fall of the Roman Empire. Have we become so numb to indecency that nothing is sacred any more? We are at the same time striving for world peace. Who cares if Khrushchev pushes the button? What's left to save?

MOTHER OF GIRLS
DEAR MOTHER: The bottoms.

DEAR ABBY: There is a boy in my neighborhood who used to like me, but he hasn't paid any attention to me for a while now. Would it be all right if I called him up and asked him what I did to make him mad at me? I have asked all the kids he is friendly with if they know why he hardly ever says "hi" to me, and they say they don't know. Maybe if I could talk to him I could get him interested in me again. I am 15 and so is he.

HUNG UP ON HIM

DEAR HUNG UP: Don't call him. And unless you want to kill any future interest he may have in you, don't ask his friends any questions about him. Forward females finish last.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law has five grandchildren, two of which are my children.

Ever since I can recall, on the mornings of their birthdays she would give me some cash and ask me if I minded buying them a present from her. She said it was hard for her to get around etc., etc. I have always bought the gifts and said nothing. The last time she asked me if I minded, I said, "Yes, I DO mind," and I told her why. Abby, I have driven from one end of this town to the other while she personally shopped for birthday gifts for her other grandchildren — her daughter's children — and if she can ask ME to drive her around while she shops for THEM, she can ask her daughter to drive her around while she shops for MINE. She told my husband, and he is furious with me. Was I wrong?

STANDING ALONE

DEAR STANDING: You were justified in feeling that you were not being treated fairly, but you've been wise to have said nothing. The daughter versus the daughter-in-law competition is as old as the marriage law, and you won't win that battle in one round.

DEAR ABBY: I read your column daily. May I comment on the "baby sitting" issue: When young people refuse to "sit" for their parents, or demand payment from their parents for this service, it is the PARENTS who have failed, not the children. They should have been taught respect for their elders at an early age.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Readers Are Asking

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is television harmful to the eyes? Normal, healthy eyes have their own built-in protection against fatigue. But like other muscles the body, eye muscles feel the strain of overexertion.

Television cannot actually damage normal eyes, but moderation is recommended by eye specialists to avoid strain. For children, especially, educators join in this suggestion for moderate TV viewing.

What is a goiter? Is there really a "goiter belt"? A goiter is a visible and characteristic enlargement of the thyroid gland in the neck. It is often caused by an inadequate amount of iodine in the drinking water.

Certain inland areas, where the water supply is very low in iodine content, are known as "goiter belts." These areas must compensate for the deficiency by artificially supplementing the water supply or the diet with additional iodine.

Why do people yawn? The standard joking reply is "boredom." Actually, a yawn is a deep inspiration of air which is nature's mechanism for increasing the oxygen supply, especially in warm, stuffy rooms. Fatigue and drowsiness can also make one yawn.

Fortunately, yawning is "contagious." This minimizes embarrassment! What kind of climate is recommended for sufferers of asthma? Cold weather puts a d d e d stress on persons who suffer from asthma, bronchitis and other lung conditions. These patients will usually be most comfortable in a warm, dry climate.

However, climate is not the only answer to the cause or cure of asthma. Before making any permanent moves to a special climate, asthmatics should have a trial period in the area where they expect to live.

Are leeches still used in medicine?

The leech is an outstanding example of how ancient tribal customs and medical folklore tenaciously survive even in this modern scientific age. In certain cultures, the leech is still occasionally used to treat inflammation of the veins of the legs.

Actually, the leech does have certain healing powers. Scientists discovered that it contains heparin, a vital anti-coagulant.

While Dr. Coleman cannot undertake to answer individual letters, he will use readers' questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of this newspaper.

Stories Behind Words

by William S. Penfield

Beggar
Lambert le Begue, a priest of Liege, in what is now Belgium, founded a religious order during the 13th Century. The members of this order, which spread throughout the Low Countries of Europe, lived by the alms that they solicited.

Since it was founded by Le Begue, a member of this order was called "beghards" in Medieval Latin, and, later, "begard" in Old French. "Begard" became "beggar" in Anglo-French and was used to refer not only to a member of the religious order, but also to anyone who solicited charity.

Still carrying this broadened meaning, the word passed into English as "beggar."

Small Renamed Broker For Borough's Insurance

STROUDSBURG — Joseph Small, Stroudsburg mayor, last night was unanimously renamed the borough's insurance broker of record and will work on a plan to consolidate all borough insurance under one policy.

The motion to rename Small was made by Joseph W. Kovarik and seconded by Stephen Sackley. Voting for the appointment were John Hauser and Howard (Bud) Altman, Jr. Council president Robert Weichel was absent from the meeting.

ing held in the municipal building. Small also handles the insurance for Monroe County. Under the new insurance plan Small's agency will write the insurance and the commissions will be split among various agencies that have handled insurance for the borough in the past.

Council decided against putting the insurance out for bids. Critical Of Firm Small was critical of the E. Bell Insurance Co. of Stroud-burg after Harold Snyder told council Bell had a representative gathering facts in order to submit to the borough a price on the consolidated plan. "Why don't they do their own evaluation like the rest of us do," Small exclaimed.

In other action council: —Authorized the borough planning commission to spend $366 to send out questionnaires in an effort to gather data needed by the commission's professional planners. The planners, Candueh, Cabot and Associates of Scranton, are presently engaged in drawing up a comprehensive master plan for the borough. Among the queries on the paper that will be sent to all borough residents are:

1. Do you favor uniting Stroudsburg, East Stroudsburg and Stroud Township into one municipality?

2. Would you favor a regional co-ordinated group to provide police, fire protection, water supply and trash and garbage collection?

—Renamed James H. Groener and George Graff to three-year appointments to the borough's Air Pollution Control Commission.

—Referred to its solicitor a request by the Humble Oil and Refining Co. for a four-foot right-of-way along McConnel St., east of Third St. Humble owns property in that area.

—Refused a request by the Penn-Stroud Hotel to rent four parking meter spaces in front of the hotel. The hotel's manager wrote council that hotel guests are receiving tickets for overnight parking and this is creating a bad name for the borough.

Kovarik said if council approved the Penn-Stroud request it would have to approve similar requests from other borough businesses.

—Heard a report from Small that the owner of the half-house near the Broad St. Bridge has refused to hook up to borough sewers. Small said the owner has informed him the sewage pipes would not be hooked up, but he (the owner) would close them off if directed by council.

Council referred the situation to the health department.

Water Charges Refuted

BANGOR — An official of American Water Works, the parent company of the Bangor Water Co., yesterday refuted charges made by Bangor councilman Albert Jones.

Jones, in a letter to U.S. Sen. Hugh Scott, stated that two new reservoirs used by the Bangor Water Co. as storage areas "are nothing more than abandoned slate quarries which have become dumping places for refuse."

He also sent Sen. Scott a copy of a report made by the Pocomo Biological Laboratory in Stroudsburg. The laboratory report stated that samples of water from the Oxford Reservoir was unfit for domestic use unless chlorinated.

The report gave the coliform bacteria count in the water as 5.0 per 100 milliliters. There should be no count, the report said.

"Common Sense" Francis X. Splane, publicity director of American Water Works, said "it is unfair of Jones to ask Sen. Scott for help when common sense would tell him (Jones) the water is safe for consumption after it is chlorinated."

Splane said there is no source of water without coliform bacteria. But after the water is chlorinated it is not dangerous, he stated. "There is no water supply in the country distributed without chlorination," Splane said.

Splane also stated the company has not been using water from the quarries since Jan. 1. "These quarries are no different from constructed reservoirs," he said.

He said the State Department of Health constantly tests the water in both quarries. "The tests indicate the water is of good quality and fit for public use after chlorination," Splane reported.

Robert Schoenberger, engineer for the State Department of Health, agreed with Splane. He said "the state has been keeping close tabs on Bangor drinking water and has found it to be of good quality."

Schoenberger also said the coliform bacteria count of 5.0 was fairly good. "A spring will have this much," he said.

He also said, "the Public Health Service regulations allow up to 50 with simple chlorination. The Delaware River runs about 500, and the accepted level for bathing places is 1,000."

Certainly Fit If . . . Arthur M. Slee, director of the Pocomo Biological Laboratory, which made the tests for Jones, also said the coliform count was low. He said "if the water is chlorinated, it is certainly fit for public use."

The manager of a plant which recently located in Northeastern Pennsylvania commented that his plant has had less absenteeism due to illness since relocating in Pennsylvania than it ever had before! Proves Pennsylvania's a pretty healthy place to live . . . and to work!

Ex-Diner Owners Seek $110,000

STROUDSBURG — Four Philadelphia people — former co-owners of the Pocono Lake Diner — have filed their intention to start court action against five insurance companies in an effort to recover $110,000 they claim is owed them.

A praecipe for a summons was filed in Monroe County Courthouse, Tuesday, by Atty. Harry Lee of Stroudsburg in behalf of Mary Rosenthal, Anna

Schwartz and Yetta and Bernard Miller.

Named defendants are the American Casualty Co., Manhattan Fire and Marine Insurance Co., Reliance Insurance Co., Home Insurance Co. and Excelsior Insurance Co. of New York.

Atty. Lee said the action was filed to prevent the statute of limitations from running out.

The action stems from a diner burning incident that has a long history in county court and involves Daniel R. Rosenthal of Levittown.

The plaintiffs have claimed in court the diner burned three weeks after the insurance went into effect. They claim Rosenthal, who was also a co-owner, insured the diner without their knowledge.

The plaintiffs were defendants in a county court assault and battery action, brought against them by Rosenthal in May. They were found not guilty by a jury but were required to share court costs.

Awarded Mistrial Earlier, Rosenthal was awarded a mistrial on charges that he fraudulently purchased the insurance.

Rosenthal has also appeared in court frequently on charges of non-support brought by his wife, Mary, a plaintiff in Tuesday's action and a defendant in May's assault and battery case.

The latest action requires the county prothonotary to have the sheriff serve a summons on the Block Insurance Agency of Wilkes-Barre. The agency sold the insurance to Rosenthal.

Speeders Beware In Eastburg

EAST STROUDSBURG — A recent crack down on speeders and reckless drivers in East Stroudsburg will continue, Mayor Thomas Kistler said unless offenders start obeying traffic laws.

Mayor Kistler said the crack down netted 17 violators during July. He said borough police are patrolling the borough at all times in an effort to stop "dangerous practices."

Kistler said the trouble spots are N. Courtland St., Washington St. and King St. The mayor said the crack down was started after several residents complained of young drivers speeding along borough streets.

Gorilla Tamed By Drug Gun

CHICAGO (AP) — Simbad the Gorilla, 500-pound star attraction at Lincoln Park Zoo, slipped out of his cage and roamed the inner corridors of the monkey house Monday until a bullet loaded with a tranquilizing drug cut short his travels. Visitors were evacuated and more than 20 armed policemen converged on the monkey house. The officers were not needed because the eight-foot tall gorilla did not reach the public area.

Mixup Over Credits Delayed Eastburg's Urban Projects

EAST STROUDSBURG — A mixup over who is entitled to $118,800 in credits earned when the state financed the 1958 inter-borough flood control project has delayed the starting dates of East Stroudsburg's urban renewal projects.

The Redevelopment Authority of Monroe County has been counting on the borough receiving federal credit for money the state spent to build the dyke system along Broadhead Creek.

Recently Pennsylvania Senator Joseph Clark requested the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers — who has jurisdiction over the flood credits — to reimburse the state for money spent on flood control. If this came about, the borough would not receive credit for the $118,800. This money has been earmarked as the state's and borough's share of $1,014,642 planned to be spent on renewal projects within the borough.

At an East Stroudsburg Borough Council meeting Tuesday night, King Beers, executive director of the authority, called Sen. Clark's move "typical politics."

Beers told the councilmen State Rep. Van D. Yetter has been in contact with Sen. Clark's office and "everything is straightened out."

He admitted the authority would be "out of business" if the federal credit went to the state instead of the borough.

Aug. 1 Deadline Missed Beers said yesterday the S. Courtland St. project — scheduled to start Aug. 1 — will not begin until sometime in the fall. He said the Lincoln Ave. project will start next spring.

The executive director said the S. Courtland St. starting date has been delayed because the federal government is demanding that both projects be put under "loan and grant contracts" at the same time.

This means the government has approved all preliminary plans connected with the projects and has authorized a grant, Beers pointed out.

He explained partially executed disposition documents for the Lincoln Ave. project have been approved by local agencies and will be forwarded for government approval this week.

"This is the last requirement the project must meet before it gets final approval, Courtland St. has received all necessary approvals," Beers said.

Beers said the authority will not move on Courtland St. until final approval is received for Lincoln Ave.

"We will not incur costs until Lincoln Ave. is ready. Otherwise the borough would be ready at the same time to be eligible for the flood credits."

"Rapid Relocation" Beers said the authority is hoping for "rapid relocation" of persons in the S. Courtland St. project, once federal approval is received.

Allon (Bucky) Jones, authority relocation director, has been working with persons who will be displaced and reports adequate new and rental properties are available for the displaced persons.

Beers said the authority will move fast after it receives money to acquire properties.

He said he hopes for final government approval "in four to six weeks."

Once the properties have been acquired the authority will let bids for demolition and redevelopment of the Courtland St. land.

Hit-Run Charge Faces Area Man

CANADENSIS — A 44-year-old Canadensis man was arrested yesterday by Honesdale State Police and charged with hit and run.

Friend F. Beecher Jr. was arrested by Trooper Joseph Chinch of Honesdale who was acting on information supplied by residents of Newfoundland who witnessed the accident.

The victim, Mrs. Nancy J. Morgan, 43, of Huntington Valley was admitted to Wayne Memorial Hospital in Honesdale where her condition was listed satisfactory. She suffered fractures of the ribs and nose, cuts and abrasions.

According to State Police, her car was sideswiped by a hit and run vehicle on Rt. 191 at Newfoundland Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. Her car was forced against a utility pole and bounced into a field.

Beecher, who was taken into custody at his cottage at Angels, was charged with failure to stop and identify himself and failure to render assistance at the scene of an accident.

Bail was set at $500 on each count and Beecher was remanded to the Wayne County Jail after failure to post bail before Elmore Haag, Justice of the Peace in Newfoundland.

Beers said the Post Office Department and Acme Markets — both planning to build new buildings in the project — have been informed of the delay.

"They realize the situation and went along. They are still extremely interested," Beers said.

Slateford Boy Hurt In Fall

PORTLAND — A 14-year-old Slateford boy was admitted to the General Hospital of Monroe County yesterday for injuries received when he fell from a bicycle. A hospital spokesman said last night he was in fair condition.

The boy, David, son of Phyllis Hochrein was riding the bicycle on the Creek Rd. in Portland when he fell off the bike yesterday at 9:30 a.m.

He was taken to the hospital by the Portland ambulance.

Wandering Boy, Girl Found Safe

TOBYHANNA—An 11-year-old boy and his eight-year-old sister who were wandering about in the Tobyhanna State Park were found yesterday on Tobyhanna Army Depot property. Both were reported in good condition following the overnight ordeal.

Scotty, 11, and Joy Little, 8, of Dover, N. J., were camping out with their parents in the park when they decided to go for a walk at 4 p. m. Tuesday. They spent the entire night wandering through the woods and swamps.

Shortly before 8 a. m. yesterday they were seen walking at the depot by James Gaffney, a security guard. The children looked cold and wet and were taken to the depot dispensary where they were treated for exposure.

They were later taken to the cafeteria for a hot breakfast, according to Irv Goldberg, depot information officer. A happy reunion with their parents was made later.

Searching for the children along with the father, Ernie, were the Retrievers, a local citizens band, and members of the Coolbaugh, Gouldsboro and Mt. Pocono fire companies.

Members of the Tobyhanna State Park, under the direction of park supervisor, Elwyn Redcliffe, assisted in the rescue operations. Also, Mrs. Florence Faulk, provided coffee for members of the rescue teams throughout the night.

Bid Accepted For Bangor Typewriters

BANGOR — An offer from the Underwood Typewriter Co. was accepted Monday night by the Bangor Area School Board to provide 42 new typewriters for the junior high school at a cost of $3,603.

Underwood's plan spreads $1,201 costs annually over three years with no interest or carrying charges, and full ownership of the typewriters. Two other firms, Remington and Royal, submitted plans for lease and for outright purchases, but in both cases the bids were more than $2,000 more than Underwood's.

Wilmor Miller, president, announced a special meeting for Monday, Aug. 17.

Five requests for tax exoneration were approved.

A study was ordered into the possibility of compiling histories of all seven school districts and printing the history into a book which would be placed in libraries.

East Bangor and Lincoln school PTA's were given permission to use rooms in the rooms in the school for meetings next school term. A letter from Roosevelt PTA announced the contribution of $75 towards playground equipment erected at the school.

Harry A. Berkheimer Associates announced in a letter it has reduced the earned income tax collection assessment from 7 to 6 1/2 per cent.

Grace Lutheran Church board East Bangor, informed directors the Sunday School room in the church would be available for kindergarten purposes next school year, if needed. The board took no action pending a study of rates.

Mrs. Charlotte Hough, cafeteria chairman, appointed Raymond Scott, Harold LaPenna and Albert Ronca to her committee.

Bus Driver Workshop
The board authorized the attendance of bus drivers for school-owned buses at a county workshop at Easton Senior High Aug. 12 and 13.

Purchase of a new salsaphone for the high school band was approved after it was learned that the cost, $350, would be paid from the disbanded Music Booster Club's fund.

Financial records showed a bank balance in the school district's account of $112,880.85 on July 1. Bills totaling $37,065.20 were approved.

The board approved the district's music budget allotting $5,000 for the marching and concert band; $1,331.50 for the bolorans and color squad; $528 for cheerleaders; $296.50 for majorettes; $1,400 for choruses in Junior and Senior high; $100 each for choruses in Washington, Portland and East Bangor schools and $500 for general expenses.

Friend Bechler's Rites Conducted

CHESTER — Funeral services for Friend J. Bechler, 76, of 3131 Bethel Rd., Chester, and longtime resident of Canadensis, were held Saturday at 10 a. m. from the Clancy Funeral Home, Chester.

Burial was in the Philadelphia Memorial Cemetery. The pallbearers were John Denko, Roy Hill, Frederick Lademan, Alan Hill, Fred Hembeck and Harvey Campbell.

Johnson Warns Red China Not To Foster New Acts

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — President Johnson solemnly told a worried world Wednesday that this country was ready to answer any attempt to support or widen North Vietnamese aggression against the United States.

Admonition

Johnson delivered this admonition to Red China — or anyone else — as a followup to U.S. air strikes against North Vietnamese bases for PT boats that launched two attacks in three days against American destroyers.

Addressing thousands of cheering persons gathered on the Syracuse University campus, the President declared: "To any who may be tempted to support — or to widen — the present aggression, I say this: There is no threat to any peaceful power from the United States of America. But there can be no peace by aggression, and no immunity from reply. That is what is meant by the action taken yesterday."

Crowd Greets LBJ

After landing at Hancock Field, Johnson walked along a wire fence and greeted well-wishers among the crowd of about 4,500. Then he motored 13 miles through downtown Syracuse to the university.

Police estimated that the President was cheered by about 100,000 people who gathered at the airport, lined streets and overflowed at the dedication site.

While in the air en route from Washington and again by direct White House telephone from Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara just before his speech, Johnson received reports on the retaliatory American attacks on North Vietnamese boats and bases.

Sets Up Conference

He set up a conference in Washington with McNamara, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, the presidential adviser on national security affairs, McGeorge Bundy, and their aides.

The Syracuse trip was arranged long before the outbreak of North Viet Nam's attacks on American naval forces. The speech was changed completely to deal with this new menace to peace.

The occasion was the dedication of the Samuel I. Newhouse Communications Center at the university. The center is a $15-million project sponsored by Newhouse, a newspaper publisher, and a journalism building is the first unit.

At the close of his address, the President was awarded an honorary degree of doctor of laws.

No Alert Word For Local Units

STROUDSBURG — Local Army Units report they have received no word about going on an alert status due to the present crisis in Viet Nam.

Col. Michael Reichel, commander of the Tobyhanna Signal Corps Depot, reported there has been no change in the depot's status. He said "the depot is always on an alert of sorts for requisitions of radios and other communications equipment, but there has been no change in status due to the Viet Nam situation."

Donald M. Smith, first sergeant of Company A, 6th Tank Battalion, 68th Armor, a Stroudsburg Army Reserve unit, said his company has heard nothing of an alert.

First Lt. Edward Flory, executive officer of the East Stroudsburg National Guard Unit, Company C, 1st Battalion, 109th Infantry, also reported he knew nothing of a pending alert.

U.S. Military Dependents Show Concern

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. military dependents in Saigon went about their normal chores Wednesday. Some took their children on shopping trips.

Showing no signs of panic, they nevertheless expressed concern over what might happen next in Southeast Asia crisis.

"We have felt this crisis coming," said Connie Gardner, of New York City, whose husband has been in South Viet Nam for the last seven years.

Very Worried
"I don't think the United States had any other choice," said Mrs. Gardner. "I am very worried about these developments. At this point I don't know whether I should take my family home or not."

"We have been frightened before, but not to this extent," Mrs. James Hagen, of Fernandina Beach, Fla., whose husband is a lieutenant colonel stationed in Saigon, said.

"I won't go home unless they make me go home but I'll do whatever they tell me to do. I don't want to leave my husband."

Mrs. Hagen, who has been in South Viet Nam six months, has seen Communist terrorist attacks in Saigon. Her home is a short distance from the Shadows Bar, which was blown up last Saturday.

"One crisis here is very much like another," said Bettina Yeager of Chicago, whose husband has worked for the U.S. aid mission in South Viet Nam for three years. "I think this one will pass."

ESSC To Bestow Masters At Friday's Commencement

EAST STROUDSBURG — Two East Stroudsburg State College science students have met the requirements for biological study on the graduate level and will receive Masters Degrees with majors in the field of Biological Science at the summer commencement exercises at the local college Friday at 10 a.m. Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, president, will bestow the degrees in the college auditorium.

Larry M. Rymon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Rymon, Columbia, N.J., will be awarded the degree Master of Science, with a major in Biological Science.

Rymon was graduated from Belvidere High School in 1952 and was awarded a Bachelor of Science degree, with major in Biological Science, by the local college in 1958.

He completed Officer Candidate School in Pensacola, Florida, and commissioned an Ensign, U.S.N.R. He served five years of active duty in Japan and Hawaii.

He was released from active duty with the rating of Lieutenant in August, 1963. The title of his thesis for the Masters Degree was "A Preliminary Study of the Raccoon (Procyon Lotor) Population of the Proposed Tocks Island National Recreation Area."

Jay F. Kirkpatrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Kirkpatrick, 432 East Broad St., Quakertown, Pa., will be graduated with the degree of Master of Science, with a major in Biological Science, at formal exercises marking the conclusion of the Main Session of Summer School.

Quakertown Graduate
Kirkpatrick was graduated from Quakertown High School in 1958, and received a Bachelor of Science degree with a major in Biological Science from the local college in May 1962.

He has been a member of the Biology Department of Quakertown Community High School since that time. For the past four summers he has served as Park Ranger at the Rocky Mountain National Park in Colorado.

His thesis for the Masters Degree is entitled "Population Studies of Odocoileus Virginianus in the Proposed Tocks Island National Recreation Area."

Associate Judges Few But Still Institution

By Charles McNett
Daily Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG—The institution of associate judges, which occurs in about ten per cent of all Pennsylvania judicial districts including Monroe-Pike County, is set up in the Pennsylvania Constitution of 1874.

Districts of more than one county have associate judges in each county to operate in the absence of the president judge, and to sit with him when he holds court. While he must be learned in the law, associate judges are laymen.

Historically, the circuit court judge visited an area infrequently, and associate judges were established to perform necessary judicial functions in his absence.

President Judge Fred W. Davis, whose 43rd District embraces Monroe and Pike Counties, explained recently that as communication and transportation have improved, the actual work of the associate judge has decreased.

For instance, he said, someone in Milford who wants a show cause order no longer has to go to the local associate judge, but may call or write or perhaps drive down and see Judge Davis.

Davis said he personally prefers having associate judges, even though they no longer exercise their full powers. "It's kind of lonely up on the bench. I like to have them with me."

Asks Advice
Judge Davis said he frequently asks advice on sentences, and other matters where he likes to be able to discuss different points of view.

Two Pennsylvania Supreme Court decisions from the second decade of this century, supplied by Stroudsburg Atty. Arlington W. Williams, have defined the present sphere of influence of the associate judge.

In 1913, an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court charging that two associate judges had overstepped their authority by overruling the president judge in a Columbia County case where there was no dispute about facts, but only to legal interpretation.

Limited Duties
Justice Brown, in writing the opinion of the court, said, "They were elected as judges unlearned in the law, and if men of ordinary intelligence, ought to have known that it was never contemplated by the constitution that they should ever set up their judgment against that of the head of court on a matter of law."

Brown said that the local knowledge of the associate

Judges prepared them to assist the president judge in questions of property values, appointment of minor officials, bail, and minor parts of the business of the court of common pleas.

Another Supreme Court decision in 1918 further defined their powers. Associate Judge Charles E. Hauck joined with M. H. Rhodes in overturning a decision by President Judge Charles C. Evans.

Evans and Hauck, along with another associate judge, were the figures in the 1913 case.

In 1918, Evans had ruled that several Conyngham Twp. school officials were not in dereliction of duty. Hauck and Rhodes, in a separate opinion, ruled the officials were, and ordered them removed from office.

Justice Walling, of the Supreme Court, said "Having been elected and commissioned as judges, they are members of the court entitled to sit as such and participate in the hearing and determination of matters brought before them."

4 Persons Killed In Two-Car Crash

BUTLER, Pa. (AP) — A car loaded with six youngsters on their way to school collided with a car carrying two out-of-state women near Butler yesterday, killing four and injuring four.

Killed were James Wagner, 17, and Myra Ackelson, 17, both of nearby Prospect; Cora Mudge Smith, 64, of Pikesville, N. C.; and Lulu Upchurch, about 50, of Raleigh, N.C.

Taken to Butler Hospital were Glenda Dunkle, 16, one of the drivers, and her brothers, Loyal, 14, and Carl, 11, all from Prospect. Eugene Wilson, 13, of Prospect sustained minor injuries. Glenda and Loyal were listed in serious condition and Carl was reported in critical condition.

The accident occurred on Route 8 about eight miles north of Butler on a highway made wet by heavy rainfall.

According to the Butler County coroner's office, the Dunkle auto skidded while trying to pass another car and crashed head-on against the car driven by Miss Smith.

The North Carolina women had visited Oil City, Pa., and were returning home.

The Dunkle auto was enroute to Slippery Rock High School where James Wagner, Myra Ackelson, Eugene Wilson, and Loyal and Carl Dunkle were summer students.

"They constitute a majority of the court and may decide a case heard before the three judges against the opinion and dissent of the president judge, wherever it depends on questions of fact."

"To hold lay judges incompetent to join in passing upon such questions would render it futile for them to sit with the president judge in any case."

So firmly is this principal lodged in Pennsylvania law that a president judge may not hold courts of oyer and terminer and general jail delivery without the presence of at least one associate judge.

$9 Per Day
They receive $9 a day plus mileage, with a minimum salary of $1800 a year.

While not as important judicially as in former years, they appear to be an institution which will last. As Judge Davis said, he likes to have Monroe County Associate Judges Harry T. Hamblin and Walter D. Heckman on the bench with him.

Weather Forecast For Five Days

Five-day forecasts for Thursday, Aug. 6 through Monday Aug. 10

Eastern Pennsylvania, New Jersey, southeastern New York — Temperatures are expected to average two to six degrees below normal. It will be cool Thursday, moderating Friday, turning cooler again Saturday night and warming up again Monday. Some normal high and low temperatures are Atlantic City 79 and 68, New York 85 and 69, Philadelphia 85 and 65 and Wilkes-Barre-Scranton 80 and one-tenth to six-tenths of an inch occurring as scattered showers about Saturday.

Western Pennsylvania — Temperatures will average near normal highs of 80 and lows of 60 to 62. It will be warmer about 62. Precipitation may total from Friday, cooler over the weekend and then warmer early next week. Rainfall will average around three-tenths of an inch as scattered showers or thunder-showers Friday or Saturday and again early next week.

Finally Passes

LUSAKA, Northern Rhodesia (AP) — Fenton Chiwawa of Fort Jameson, on the Rhodesia-Malawi border, finally passed the junior secondary school exams. He's 40 and has been studying 20 years for the test.

County School Districts' Four Budgets Total $5,020,039

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County's four 1964-65 budgets for combined school districts will total $5,020,039 and will range from Stroud Union's high of $1,898,214, to Pleasant Valley's low of $554,678.

Stroud Union is the county's largest school district, and Pleasant Valley the smallest.

East Stroudsburg Area Joint District has decided to operate the next school year with a budget of $1,352,072, and the Pocono Mountain Joint School District has set up a budget totaling $1,215,975 in expenditures during 1964-65.

This year's real estate taxes in the 17 individual member school districts comprising the county's three joint districts fluctuate from sharp decreased millage to a 12 mill increase in Price Township, a part of the East Stroudsburg district.

The Stroud Union budget — up $232,297 over last year — will realize $1,020,131 from local taxes and revenues and $758,522 from state aid. The district's real estate taxes will stay at the same 39-mill rate.

Major Increase
The major increase in the budget will be $150,657, needed to raise minimum teacher salaries to $4,700.

The Pleasant Valley budget — up $27,000 from last year — will depend on $546,891 from Chestnut Hill, Polk and Ross Townships, the three districts making up the district.

Millage in Chestnut Hill will stay at 49, while the district raises $245,395 toward the joint district's expense.

Polk was able to reduce taxes 12 mills, to 44, while contributing $167,776 to the joint district.

Ross will be required to give $109,720 to Pleasant Valley over its 1964-65, while lowering taxes eight mills to 40.

The East Stroudsburg budget is up $243,000 and will depend on $1,338,072 from the six member districts comprising the joint district.

The six districts will contribute the following amounts:

East Stroudsburg Borough, $738,323; Lehman Township, $91,080; Middle Township, $177,003; Porter

Township, $18,369; Price Township, $36,949, and Smithfield Township, $276,299.

Taxes in East Stroudsburg went from 48 to 49 mills to finance its budget requirements.

Lehman dropped three, to 42. Middle Smithfield went from 34 to 35.

Porter reduced taxes from 24 to 20. Price's rose from 43 to 55. Smithfield was able to lower taxes from 47 to 40.

The East Stroudsburg joint district will spend $776,677 on instruction during the coming year, $56,735 for transportation and $222,600 for debt service.

Pocono Mountain's budget shows an increase of $75,000 over last year and is relying on receiving $1,130,075 from its eight member districts.

Pocono Mountains
Pocono Mountain's eight districts will contribute the following amounts:

Barrett Township, $246,979; Coolbaugh Township, $175,882; Jackson Township, $126,799; Mt. Pocono Borough, $81,233; Paradise Township, $114,025; Pocono Township, $201,171; Tobyhanna Township, $147,160, and Tunkhannock Township, $36,822.

Taxes in Barrett will be raised from 29 to 31 mills. Coolbaugh's will stay the same at 38. Jackson reported no raise in its 51-mill rate. Mt. Pocono went down one, to 32.

Paradise rose one to 31. Pocono up one, to 34. Tobyhanna up one, to 38. Tunkhannock stayed the same at 48.

The joint district will spend $749,789 on instruction, $122,475 for transportation and $84,926 for capital outlay.

Eldred Township — the county's only independent school district — will operate under a $109,105 budget for 1964-65. This amount is up $5,000 over last year. Taxes will remain at 28 mills.

Camp Akiba Takes Tax Plea To Court

STROUDSBURG — Camp Akiba has taken its tax appeal to court.

A petition on appeal from assessment was filed yesterday in the office of Frank Smith, Monroe County prothonotary.

The petition is by Camp Akiba of Jackson Twp. versus the Monroe County Commissioners as the board of assessment.

The action notes that in 1963, for 1964's taxes, the land of the camp was assessed for $8,450 and the buildings for $97,450.

It also notes that for 1963 taxes, the previous assessment was land, $8,450 and buildings $91,550.

The appeal this year on the assessment was denied by the commissioners. The action claims that the assessment is unjust because the value "on the buildings is in great excess of the fair market value, and is excessive in comparison to like properties in Monroe County."

It claims that a proper assessment would be $85,851. Harry F. Lee is the attorney for Louis Sherr of Camp Akiba.

AT A LAUNCHING — Mrs. William W. Scranton, the governor's wife, greets owner-manager of the Pocono Playhouse, Mrs. Rowena Stevens and Michael Ellis of Buck's County Playhouse at the opening of Ellis's Broadway-bound production of the Ira Wallach's comedy, "The Absence of a Cello" at the Pocono Playhouse. "Cello" goes on tour after one week in the Pocono's with its last stop at the Ambassador Theatre in New York, Sept. 21.

Tobyhanna Working On Planning

hanna Township Planning Commission is working toward a subdivision ordinance it was reported recently. The commission meets the second Tuesday and fourth Wednesday of every month.

Sterling Wagner, chairman of the commission, said there are six subdivisions or land developments in the township. The proposed ordinance would regulate the type of land development that could be built. It would also govern water supply, size of lots, road right of ways, etc., for the developments.

Wagner said he hopes to get advice from the county planning commission's planning consultant when one is appointed.

Oyer Seats 3 Chairmen

TATAMY — Melvin Oyer, past president of East Bangor Lions and new governor of District 14-K, installed three zone chairmen and the deputy governor of District 14-K at the home of Harry Frey in Tatamy recently.

Frey, past zone chairman and past president of the Bushkill Valley Lions Club, was installed as deputy district governor.

Zone chairmen installed were Charles Stiglin, past president of the Barrett Lions Club, in Cresco, Region 2, Zone A; Paul Gagnon, immediate past president of the Richmond Lions Club, Region 2, Zone B; and Donald E. Wenner, past president and immediate past secretary of Palmer Twp. Lions, Region 2, Zone C.

It was announced that the first district cabinet meeting will be held at Pottsville Aug. 30.

Scranton Pushed On Hospitals

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pressure is mounting on the Scranton Administration to get the state out of the hospital business, according to Arlin M. Adams, state secretary of public welfare.

Adams said other counties "are complaining" about the state running general hospitals in the coal regions and Philadelphia because they do not have "comparable service."

"There have been attempts to get the state out of the general hospital business in the past and I don't know whether anything can be done about it or not," he said, adding that he planned to discuss this with Gov. Scranton soon.

The former Leader Administration attempted to turn the hospitals over to the local communities, but ran into opposition from the legislature.

Adams said the hospitals have an annual budget of $11 million, but only $3 million is paid to the state by their patients.

16 Deeds Filed

STROUDSBURG — Sixteen deeds were filed yesterday in the office of Mrs. Jeannette F. Batory, Monroe County register and recorder.

They included four deeds from Pocono Lake-Shores, Inc. One to Anthony and Meta Lynch of Little Ferry, N.J., another to Dorothy E. Halpin of Trenton, N.J., another to Delaware Valley Sportsman's Club in Philadelphia, another to William and Barbara Laudenslager of Haddonfield, N.J.

Also three deeds from Rainbow Lakes, Inc. One to Edward and Florence Morrison of Yonkers, N.Y., another to John and Anna Tidaback of Yonkers, N.Y., another to Peter A. Vandenberg, Inc., of Passaic, N.J. Also Wilbert and Mary E. Roth of Nazareth to Clark F. and Lucille D. Burger and George F. and Ruth E. Hawk, and Charles A. Franz, all of Polk Twp., property in Polk Twp.; Alvah Merwin of Mt. Pocono to Chris and Nellie Colovos of Scranton, property in Mt. Pocono; Beulah B. and Alvah Merwin of Mt. Pocono and Lila M. and Amos F. Storm of Stroudsburg to the Colovos's property in Mt. Pocono.

Also William J. and Helen V. Warke of Allentown to Joseph F. Elva and David Temarantz of Kingston, property in Coolbaugh Twp.; the Warke's to William and Helen Muskuskie of S. Norwalk, Conn., property in Tunkhannock Twp.

Also Herbert and Maude Batrouny of Mt. Pocono to Herbert Batrouny, property in Mt. Pocono; Franklin B. and Miriam P. Rehm of Stroud Twp. to Lester G. Abellof of Stroud Twp., property in Stroud Twp.; Joseph A. Shupp of Chestnut Hill to Ira F. and Miriam E. Altman of Chestnut Hill, property in Chestnut Hill Twp.; Margaret A. Davis of Scranton to Philip J. Messina of Mt. Pocono, property in Mt. Pocono.

Two Complete Naval Course

STROUDSBURG — Two area Naval Reserve officers recently completed the 1964 Instructor Training Course for Naval Reserve officers held at the Armed Forces Staff College in Norfolk, Va.

They are Commander Lawrence Wile of Box 25, Cresco, and Commander Lester W. Dimmick of 705 Milford Rd., East Stroudsburg.

Wile is a student at the Naval Reserve Officers School in East Stroudsburg State College (ESSC) and is principal of the Pocono Mountain Joint Schools in Swiftwater. He has been with the Naval Reserve Officers School since September 1963.

Who is a graduate of ESSC and New York University. He is married to the former Tilda Comazzi of Canadensis, and has two children, Mrs. Dale Price of Canadensis and Lawrence Jr., a student at ESSC.

Dimmick is a member-student of the Naval Reserve Officers School in ESSC and is a mathematics teacher at the East Stroudsburg Area Joint School. He too has been with the Naval Reserve Officers School since September 1963.

Dimmick is a graduate of Columbia and Bucknell Universities. He is married to the former Tilda Scherer of East Stroudsburg, and has three children, Mrs. Suzanne Vichnicki of Levittown, Pa., L. William Dimmick of Marshalls Creek, and Mary E. Dimmick, at home.

Both men were among 31 Naval Reserve officers selected to participate in this year's course. The Norfolk seminar was the 10th annual program conducted by the Navy to improve the quality of instruction at U. S. Naval Reserve Officers Schools.

Man Floats To Safety

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP) — A 33-year-old man floated more than seven miles safely to shore Saturday night after his cabin cruiser exploded in the Atlantic Ocean outside Great Egg Harbor.

The man, Herbert F. Delles, staggered ashore at the famed Stouffer Pier at 2 a. m. Sunday after 7 1/2 hours in the water, suffering only from exhaustion. He was treated at Atlantic City Hospital and sent home to his wife and 7-year-old daughter in nearby McKee City.

A relieved Mrs. Delles said her husband went to a boat yard on English Creek on Saturday afternoon to prepare their 30-foot cabin cruiser, the D. W. D. for a fishing trip.

He took it out for a run and was about a mile and a half outside Great Egg Harbor, when the fuel pump began smoking.

"He had the lines over the boat trailing them and thought he had it under control," Mrs. Delles said. "When he smelled smoke inside the cabin, he opened the door and flame 'popped' out. Then he heard a loud crack, grabbed a life preserver and jumped into the water."

"When he was about 10 feet away the whole boat exploded. He was alone on board."

Opens 75th Season Next Week At Shawnee

Philadelphia Orchestra Top Draw

SHAWNEE—When the Philadelphia Orchestra opens its 85th season next Tuesday and Wednesday at Shawnee Inn it will begin another season of record breaking performances.

Average seasonal attendance to which Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra play total about 250,000 during more than 80 concerts in the Academy of Music in Philadelphia. To this figure can be added over 200,000 more who attend over 70 performances in other American cities.

Millions more hear broadcasts of tape-recorded, full-length Philadelphia Orchestra programs "live" from the Academy of Music and of the Orchestra's myriad Columbia recordings.

The giant television public enjoys at least two nation-wide Philadelphia Orchestra telecasts per season.

Most Recorded
The Philadelphia Orchestra is the most recorded orchestra in the world and it would be impossible to count the millions who enjoy their own records at

Dr. C. W. Watts II Named President

LEWISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Dr. Charles H. Watts II became the 11th president of Bucknell University yesterday.

Dr. Watts, formerly executive associate of the American Council on Education in Washington, D. C., assumed the office previously held by Dr. Merle M. Odgers, who retired Aug. 1.

Dr. Watts will be presented formally to the student body and faculty at convocation exercises Sept. 16 marking the opening of the university's 118th academic year.

'Molly Brown' Set For Sherman

STROUDSBURG — Starting Wednesday, the musical comedy, the "Unsinkable Molly Brown" will be shown at the Sherman Theater in Stroudsburg.

The mining town of Telluride, Colo., serves as the Leadville of the picture's plot, the town from which Molly sets out to get herself a rich man. Her search for fame and fortune is the plot of the story.

home. Each new season brings more and more recordings by the Orchestra of both standard symphonic repertoire and the important new works.

In 1960 the Philadelphia Orchestra Assn. inaugurated a new transcription service which is offered to "good" music stations throughout the country. Several series of 13 full-length concerts, tape-recorded in the most advanced stereo and monaural techniques, are now presented to radio audiences throughout America.

Ormandy is the integral part of this heavy schedule, conducting at least two-thirds of all concerts during a season. During periods when Ormandy fulfills guest engagements here and abroad, renowned conductors are invited to appear as guests, and in many instances, to make their American debuts at the helm of the Philadelphia Orchestra.

In the last decade, such notable conductors as Beecham, Monteux, Barbirolli, Walter Klemperer, Reiner, Munch, Ansermet, Cantelli, and Stokowski have shared the season with Ormandy.

All of the outstanding soloists in the world of music have appeared with the Philadelphia Orchestra. Soloists have always been featured during each of Ormandy's 28 years with the famous orchestra.

In Philadelphia, in addition to the regular subscription concerts, the Orchestra presents a series of six concerts featuring Ormandy, guest conductors and soloists as a part of the orchestra's "youth program."

FAT OVERWEIGHT

Available to you without a doctor's prescription, our drug called ODRINEX. You must lose ugly fat or your money back. No strenuous exercise, laxatives, massage or taking of so-called reducing candies, crackers or cookies, or chewing gum. ODRINEX is a tiny tablet and easily swallowed. When you take ODRINEX, you still enjoy your meals, still eat the foods you like, but you simply don't have the urge for extra portions because ODRINEX depresses your appetite and decreases your desire for food. Your weight must come down, because as your own doctor will tell you, when you eat less, you weigh less. Get rid of excess fat and the longer ODRINEX costs $3.00 and is sold on this GUARANTEE: If not satisfied for any reason just return the package to your druggist and get your full money back. No questions asked. ODRINEX is sold with this guarantee by: Rex & Deek, 678 Main St., Mail orders filled.

In other fields the orchestra presents "Children's Concerts" conducted by the assistant conductor, William Smith.

All proceeds from the two concerts by the Philadelphia Orchestra at Shawnee Inn will go into the Pocono Art Center's Building Fund for the organization's new pavilion and concert hall.

Just Between Us —

It's hard to adjust to these rapid changes in temperature. Since humans aren't made of freezer - to - oven synthetics, this business of shivering at midnight and sweating at noon is likely to crack the disposition.

For me, it is also hard to adjust to these rapid changes in the size of my household: 13 one night and all alone the next doesn't let a routine have time to set but leaves it sort of slippery and ungraspable like underdone jelly.

During one of the times when the sides of the cottage seemed to be breathing in and out like a bellows with all the sleeping inhabitants, I woke up some time before dawn—wide awake.

Ordinarily I would have wandered: To the refrigerator for a glass of milk, to the book case for an old mystery story or the easy chair for my unfinished crossword, since to lie quietly in the dark is to unleash all those dire imaginings of unspecified catastrophes that seem so tame and manageable by day.

But for once there was literally no place to roam without disturbing somebody—no light that could be lit without shining in somebody's eyes. So groping in the dark for a heavy bathrobe and woolly slippers, after encountering several furry dogs in my groping who only thumped their tails and went on sleeping, I made it outdoors.

The silver sky and silver river reflected an enormous amount of light so that the lawn chairs, still grouped for sunset conversation, looked companionable and I could have read the forgotten comic books on the table.

But the river itself was so close enough, since with only moving water to watch I somehow feel no urge to activity myself. But suddenly circles dimpled the satin of the river's surface as if it were raining great, scattered drops, or as if the river were getting ready to boil.

Fascinated I watched, and all over the river tiny silver fish were leaping, reflecting

Miss Shafer Engaged To F. A. Capone

Bangor — Mrs. Gladys Grupp of 765 Broadway, Bangor, and George Shafer announce the engagement of their daughter, Donna Lee Shafer, to Frank A. Capone, son of Mrs. Leonard Schiavone of 392 South Main St., Bangor and the late Anthony Capone.

Miss Shafer is a graduate of the Bangor Area High School and is employed at the Darran Apparel, Bangor.

Mrs. Capone is also a graduate of Bangor Area High School and is employed by Collins and Auman Co., in Pen Argil.

The silver light and making little plops, hundreds of little fish. Whether they were shad fingerlings going down from the spawning beds to the sea, or just small river fish trying to escape a school of bigger fish, I'll never know. The phenomena lasted about half an hour, until the pre-dawn breeze came up when it all stopped as suddenly as it began and sent me shivering back to bed. But the sight still lingered on my eyelids, much more soothing and poetic than counting sheep.

Jolly Janes Meet Specially For Dressings

Bartonsville—A special summer meeting of the Jolly Janes Club was held at the home of Mrs. James N. Canfield Jr. for purpose of making dressings. 88 were completed.

Assisting with the project were Mrs. Russell Bond, Mrs. James Agins, Sr., Mrs. Haviland Heller, Mrs. Edward Vicari, Mrs. Fred Walters, Mrs. Joseph Dunbar, Mrs. Donald Hartman, Mrs. Frank Hertling, Mrs. Anita Wallace, Mrs. Roy Schreck, Mrs. James N. Canfield Jr. and Miss Mary Alleger.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Canfield.

Stroud Club Board Plans Busy Year

Stroudsburg — Projects, run by project teams, and the annual dance will be the major money-making projects of the Stroud Community Woman's Club now preparing for a busy year in a new home, the Stroud Mansion House.

At the recent meeting of the executive board, Mrs. Edward Hardstone and Mrs. Charles Swisher were named co-chairmen of the annual dance.

Mrs. John Sibley, chairman of ways and means, will announce later how the project teams will be set up and the co-chairmen of each project.

The board voted $25 to the Marshalls Creek Disaster Fund. Resignations of Mrs. Robert Nagel and Mrs. John Muller were accepted.

Mrs. William Morgan, president, called on the chairmen for reports. Mrs. Kenneth Kruse outlined the year's programs.

40 et 8 Family Picnic

Lake Ariel — Voyageurs and their families from the surrounding area are invited to attend the annual family basket picnic to be held Sunday by American Legion 40 et 8, Voltaire, 2 of Lackawanna County. It will be held at the 40 et 8 grounds, Cortez, near Lake Ariel.

Refreshments will be served all day. There will be prizes and contests for the children. Tickets are sold for the family. John Diamond is chairman.

First Aid Course Opening In Tobyhanna

Tobyhanna — The Standard First Aid Course, approved and set up by the American Red Cross will be offered to residents of the Tobyhanna area in classes at the Coolbaugh Twp. firehouse beginning Thursday, Aug. 23, at 7 p.m.

Sponsored by the Fire Co. Ambulance Committee of which Stanley E. Pope is chairman, the classes will be held on consecutive Thursdays and will cover hemorrhage control, shock prevention, artificial respiration, care of fractures, transportation of the injured and care of common injuries.

Because of the increased demand for ambulance service, more personnel will be trained to man the equipment. In addition, mothers are especially urged to attend because of the many minor injuries and accidents around the home.

President Marshall Bonner of the fire company has asked everyone, regardless of age or sex, to take the course if possible. Instructor will be George J. Rosenberg of Tobyhanna, a member of the fire company and its ambulance committee, and a qualified Red Cross instructor. Visiting instructors will assist and a number of first-aid movies will supplement the course.

Reisenwitz's To Observe Anniversary

East Stroudsburg — Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reisenwitz of 170 Lackawanna Ave., East Stroudsburg, quietly celebrated their 52nd wedding anniversary on Aug. 1.

Mr. Reisenwitz is retired from the D.L.W. Railroad after 50 years service.

They are the parents of two children: Mrs. Clayton Rafferty, Columbia, N.J. and Herbert Reisenwitz Sr. of East Stroudsburg; four grandchildren; and ten great grandchildren.

They both lived in the Monroe County area all their lives except for several years when they resided in the Stateford area.

Mrs. Hardy Surprised At Baby Shower

Stroudsburg — A surprise baby shower was held in honor of Mrs. Lucille Hardy of Main St., Stroudsburg, whose sister, Mrs. Diana Holdorf, East Stroudsburg was hostess.

Refreshments were served to Pauletta Henry, Grace Pansy, Bonnie Fenical, Judy Riccardo, Mrs. Pat Davies, Mrs. Maureen Fuller, Mrs. Betty Pugh, Mrs. Sue Nelson, Mrs. Leah Durant, Mrs. Florence Davies, Mrs. Betty Wilder, Mrs. Joyce Pugh, Mrs. Peg Williamson, Mrs. Betty Hardy, Carol Wilder and Mrs. Dandy Bradley.

Also sending gifts were Mrs. Frances Pugh of East Stroudsburg; Mrs. Robert Over, Mount Pocono; Mrs. Jean Miller, Bartonsville; and Jackie Kneper, Carol Sanders and Lorraine Kemmerer of Stroudsburg.

Corn Roast By Crusaders Friday Night

Bartonsville — The annual hot dog and corn roast, sponsored by the Crusaders of St. John's Lutheran Sunday school, will be held on the parish house lawn on Saturday night, August 8. Serving will start at 6 p.m. In event of rain, the food will be served in the parish house.

Crusader families are requested to contribute a gallon of beverage. Members of the church and Sunday school are invited to attend.

Home From Hospital — Portland — Stewart Bartholomew, who had been a patient in Moses Taylor Hospital, Scranton, for several days has returned to his home in Stateford.

ANTIQUE FURNITURE will be offered by many of the dealers in the antique show at the college for the benefit of the General Hospital of Monroe County. Here is a dining room setting to be displayed by Patrick Henry.

Hospital's Antique Show Opens Three-Day Stand Here

East Stroudsburg — The opening of the 20th Anniversary Show today in the college gymnasium, will mobilize all members of the General Hospital Auxiliary for the three days of the show in which 40 dealers are participating.

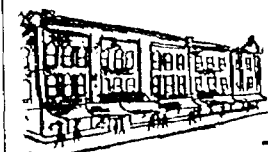

For the first time, a Saturday has been included in the show for the benefit of weekend visitors. The show will be open from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. today and Friday, and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Saturday.

This year's show will have an unusual quantity of antique furniture. A dining room setting will highlight the Patrick Henry Antiques booth. The Silver Sleigh in Tunkhannock will feature furniture with an appeal to the decorator. Mona and Frank Fitzgerald of the Briar Heath Antiques have included a dry sink, an early American dough box, butter churn and spinning wheel, as well as unusual oblong butter bowls.

Pauline Williams of Drexel Hill plans to bring a Hepplewhite inlaid drop-leaf Pembroke table and a very early and very rare child's wooden tricycle known as Irish Mail. The Altie in Easton are especially proud of a cherry table, a Connecticut pine table, and the wagon seat and Boston rocker.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

One of the nice things that happened yesterday, was the receipt of a letter from Bertha Pfeieger, the kindly lady who supplied a high chair for which a family had appealed through our Wyckoff Shopper column and radio program. Since I enjoyed the letter so much, I am sure that you will also, and it follows, unchanged except for one line in which Mrs. Pfeieger reveals the age of her older daughter. Knowing how most women react to publicizing their age, I decided a bit of editing would probably meet with the young woman's approval.

Dear Mrs. Maloney:

Presuming—from reading your column in "The Daily Record"—that you are always interested in pertinent facts, I would like to tell you a little story of the history behind that "High Chair."

As you no doubt noticed it was no "Late Model" but sturdy, and had held many of my precious ones. It is not too old. I must say this as my daughter who used it first still seems young to me. My second daughter was next, to be then followed by six of my grandchildren.

Mr. Pfeieger used to paint it for each new youngster as they came along, but for the last, all previous coats were removed, and we kept it at its natural wood. He was for throwing it away after we moved up here eight years ago, but I held on to it for sentimental reasons, and promised I would only give it away when I heard of someone that could use it. Your lines solved the problem. Sincerely,

BERTHA PFEIGER

P.S. Don't we always hear how well they made things years ago? Well—I have been using iron frying pans that were my Grandmother's—but since I have purchased in Wyckoff's that new Teflon Fry Pan, I have pushed Grandmother's pans in the background. (Me, for modern living!!!)—B. P.

I am sure Mary Hitesman will appreciate the endorsement of her Teflon fry pans. And women by the score will agree with Mrs. Pfeieger that they are wonderful. But did you know there are also Teflon cookie tins, sauce pans, and other baking dishes? There are ... and we sell them.

Thank you again, Mrs. Pfeieger. It was fun hearing from you, and now your gift seems even more generous. Anyone can give something away that means nothing to them. To give memories away is to give something really precious!

Home Secretarial Work Is There -- Look For It

By Roberta Fleming Roesch — "I DON'T" came how many times you say it," one reader recently wrote me. "It's absolutely impossible to get secretarial work at home."

"In my case I had a good office job before I quit to get married, but despite the fact that I still have my skills, nobody wants to hire me now because I want to work at home so I can be with my children."

"Opportunities DON'T exist, regardless of what you say!" Reason For Emphasis — Opportunities DO exist, regardless of what YOU say! And the reason we say this emphatically is because of women we know.

One mother, for example, who has worked in this manner for years, has screened off one end of her dining room to make an office at home. This space is filled with a large office desk, and numerous office machines, because the more she offers, the more business comes her way.

"In the beginning all I wanted to do was type," she admits. "But when working at home became a necessity I found I had to learn how to mimeograph, prepare brochures, type manuscripts, run off flyers, write resumes and do all the various business chores that people wanted done."

Her Successful System — How did she get her actual start? Exactly the way you'll get your own start when you want office work at home!

Precisely, the method is one you can try.

1. Watch all your local newspapers and follow through on each and every "Help Wanted" ad that asks for someone to work at home. Answer the ad immediately, too, before someone else gets the lead.

2. If you can invest some advertising money, place "Work Wanted" ads in the papers yourself. If, on the other hand, you can't invest any money, take advantage of any free bulletin boards on which you can post ads.

3. Tell everyone you know that you're in the market for work at home and will pick up and deliver work.

4. Expand your present training to include as many business skills as possible. This may seem impractical when no one is buying your services now. But it's an investment you'll have to make if you want success at home.

5. While you're trying to get your service known, volunteer your clerical ability to a church or community organization. This goodwill advertising will get your name around and give you broader experience.

Leave Your Card

6. Make personal calls at your municipal building and leave cards with your name, address, telephone number and business services for the town clerk and heads of local boards.

7. Canvass small business offices and let them know you're available for overflow work and special projects. Similarly go through the classified section of your telephone directory and contact places of business that would conceivably have some kind of work to farm out to outside workers.

8. Finally, be patient and maintain the confident attitude that you do have a service to offer and that someone will ultimately want you.

Lambert Family In Reunion

Pen Argyl — The annual Lambert Family reunion was held Sunday at Winona Park, Pen Argyl with 87 members of the family present.

Herbert Lambert of Morris-town, N.J., was re-elected as president. Other officers were elected: Saide Decker, vice president; Kathryn Fish, secretary; and Clifford Lambert, treasurer, all of East Stroudsburg. Miss Betty Decker and Mrs. Ruth Crane were elected to the entertainment committee.

Prizes were awarded to the youngest married couple, Ronald and Lucille Fish who were married six weeks; to Lorrie Trane as the youngest child; to Mr. and Mrs. Horace Frederick as the oldest married couple, 55 years; and to Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Wail, youngest grandparents.

A picnic dinner and family reminiscence marked the reunion.

Deanery Holds Meeting

Mount Pocono — At the special meeting of the board of directors of the Monroe Pike Deanery of the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women, Miss Marie Brown, Stroudsburg, introduced the moderator of the deanery: Rev. John Walsh of St. Mary of the Mount Church, Mount Pocono, who is the representative of the Dean, Rt. Rev. Msgr. C. A. McHugh.

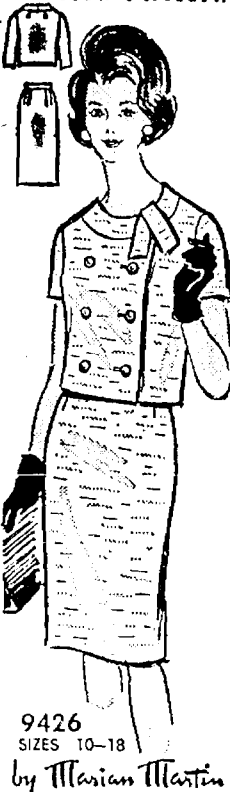

Plans were launched for a Day of Recollection for high school students from Monroe and Pike Counties on Sunday, Sept. 27. Two boys and two girls will work, said Rev. John Walsh, chairman of spiritual development and confraternity of Christian Doctrine, to complete arrangements.

For the women, there will be two days of recollection. For those in Monroe County at St. Matthew's, East Stroudsburg, on Oct. 10; and in Milford it will be Aug. 17.

It was voted to send a delegate to the National Convention in Washington, Nov. 13-15 when business pertinent to the Diocesan Council and Deanery is on the agenda.

The next Deanery meeting will be held Oct. 4 in St. Matthew's. Hostesses served punch and cookies.

Singer Clan Reunion At Appenzell

Appenzell — The 35th annual Singer reunion was held at the Appenzell Picnic Grove on Aug. 7 with 100 family members present for the meeting and picnic lunch.

Richard Singer, president, opened the meeting with silent prayer in memory of family members who had died during the year. The report of the secretary, the late Homer L. Singer, who had served as secretary since 1938, was read by his granddaughter, Mrs. Claudette Segur, and the treasurer's report was given by Miss Sally Singer.

Elected for the 1965 reunion

Why "Good-Time Charlie" Suffers Uneasy Bladder

Uneasy eating or drinking may be a source of much, but annoying bladder irritations — making you feel restless, tense, and uncomfortable. And if restless nights, with nagging backache, headache or muscular aches and pains due to over-exertion, strain or emotional upset, are adding to your misery — don't wait — try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act 3 ways for speedy relief: 1 — They have a soothing effect on bladder irritations. 2 — A fast pain-relieving action on nagging backache, headache, muscular aches and pains. 3 — A wonderfully mild diuretic action thru the kidneys, tending to increase the output of the 15 miles of kidney tubes. So, get the same happy relief millions have enjoyed for over 60 years. For convenience, buy the large size. Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today!

Lantz said if council ends the current year with a surplus, it could handle the $8,000 that would be due on the sweeper.

In other action council hired Ford Predmore, 36, of 71 Lackawanna Ave., to work as an assistant at the borough's sewage plant.

Mayor Thomas Kistler told council the borough will be required to conform to nationwide standards for highway signs by 1967. He urged council to be sure any signs put up in the future conformed with specifications of the federal government.

Proposed Water Budget

Council also received a proposed Water Dept. budget for 1964-65 calling for receipts of $122,403. The budget also shows the department will spend $101,826 during the coming year, leaving the fund with a cash balance of $20,578 on May 31, 1965.

Income is expected from the following sources:

$21,703 cash balance June 1, 1965; $20,000 loan from the borough's general fund; $13,500 from metered water sales; $63,500 from unmetered sales, and $700 from water payment penalties.

Expenditures will be made for the following services:

Water collection, $2,000; purification, $1,600; distribution, $7,700; general expenses and operation and maintenance, $27,025; debt service, $28,500, and proposed improvements, $53,000.

Pen Argyl Aides Resign; Caesar Named Engineer

PEN ARGYL — Resignation of two Pen Argyl Borough Council officers was accepted at this week's council meeting.

They were Ray T. Hughes, borough secretary, and David O. Pritchard, borough engineer. Pritchard was praised for duties for the borough during the last 40 years. A. Victor Caesar of Pen Argyl was hired to replace Pritchard.

The resignation of Hughes is effective on or before Dec. 31, 1964. He said he cannot give the job the amount of time required to complete all of the work involved.

To Cut Off Water
In other action, the council decided to shut off the water supply of persons who are delinquent in paying rental to the Pen Argyl sanitary sewer system.

Council will send out notices to these persons stating that their water supply will be shut off by the Blue Mountain Consolidated Water Co. within 10 days of the receipt of the notice until all delinquent rentals and the penalties are paid, it was announced.

Council reported that there will be liens placed on eight property owners in the borough who are delinquent in the connection fees and hook-up fees.

Lloyd Yeisley asked what could be done at a proposed building site on the corner of Harding Ave. and Reservoir Ave. since there are no sewer lines in this area. Council noted that there cannot be septic systems installed in the borough and that the Sewer Authority will have to take up the problem as to whose responsibility the cost of the installation is to be.

Fines For Failures

It was reported that there were four connections made during the month bringing the total connections to 1,180, with approximately 50 more connections to be made. It was noted that if these persons do not hook up they will be fined for failing to do so.

Fire Chief William Savercool of the Lookout Volunteer Fire Co. indicated that the company is in need of 500 feet of two and one-half inch hose to put the fire equipment up to normal operating standards. The council approved the purchase of the hose.

An invitation was extended to council to participate in the parade to be held Sept. 7 in conjunction with the 29th annual Labor Day celebration of the Lookout Volunteer Fire Co.

Bids Open

It was announced that the Council will advertise for bids for a new fire alarm system for use in the borough to replace the present system which is outdated. The bids will be opened at a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 17 in the council chambers, with the work to be completed within 30 days from the awarding date of the contract.

It was decided after a discussion to accept the bid of Brooks Edwards to remove the present bell tower, siren and bell from the Borough Hall and to board up the roof at a cost of $893, with the work to be done after the installation of the new system.

Also, council instructed the secretary to write to the Pennsylvania Department of Highways asking the department to reconsider the borough's request for a blinker light at the intersection of Main St. and Pennsylvania Ave.

It was reported that the Junior Woman's Club of Pen Argyl had again donated some additional street signs to the borough. They are being installed.

Raze Garage

The chairman of the street committee was authorized to obtain a contractor to raze a garage behind the Norland.

STROUDSBURG — Notice of the death of Edith G. MacAulay of Philadelphia, Sovereign Keeper of Archives, Dames of Malta, Continent of North America, on July 25, has just been received by Christina Tector, keeper of archives at St. John's Sisterhood, Dames of Malta, Stroudsburg.

8369th Set For Encampment

STROUDSBURG — The 8369th Air Force Reserve Recovery Group, under the command of Col. Franklin D. Coslett, Wilkes-Barre, will open its summer encampment Saturday at Group Headquarters in Wyoming.

The encampment will continue through Sunday, Aug. 23. Col. Coslett said his group, comprised of more than 4 officers and airmen, will be engaged in processing records of all Pennsylvania Air Force Reservists.

In addition to these duties, the area reservists will receive extensive training in the use of small arms, in chemical warfare and in first aid.

It is expected that several top officials of the Department of Defense, as well as men of higher Air Force Headquarters, will visit the area reservists during the coming two weeks.

Beer Flight Ends In Jail

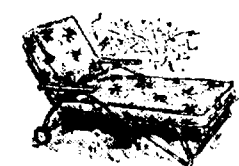

CRESCO — Arthur M. Hardy, 42, of Cresco was committed to the Monroe County Jail yesterday in default of $100 bail on a charge of larceny. He received a hearing before Clifford L. Bush, Justice of the Peace in Cresco late Tuesday night.

Hardy was apprehended by Barrett Twp. Chief of Police Harry Campbell Tuesday after he fled from Mick's Tavern where he ordered three quarts of beer and ran out without paying.

Oil Pastel Exhibit Set

DELAWARE WATER GAP — Justin McCarthy of Weatherly, a Carbon County artist, will exhibit his oil pastel paintings featuring the world's fair flowers and fashions at the Delaware Water Gap art show on Aug. 14 and 15.

Also on exhibition will be water colors and oils he has never exhibited before. This will also include his original cartoons called the "Nude World" which will also be shown at the Stroudsburg art show Aug. 21 and 22.

Stengel Through After This Year

NEW YORK (AP) — The most celebrated manager in baseball, Casey Stengel, will reach a parting of the ways with the New York Mets at the end of this season. The Associated Press learned Wednesday.

It is not known whether Mrs. Charles S. Payson, club owner, or Donald M. Grant, chairman of the board of directors, have as yet broken the news to the 74-year-old Stengel.

What is known, however, is that both are in accord that Casey has served his purpose and that there is no more need of his publicity-bringing, promotional and image-building services.

They feel the club after three years of existence, all in the National League basement, has reached the stage in its young life where it must be developed on the field as well as at the box office. And they agree, too, that a younger man is needed for the job — a man closer to the age of the Mets Players.

It could very well be that Casey agrees.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A ground slam homer by Nelson Mathews, his second of the year and third of his career, capped a five-run fourth inning uprising that triggered the Kansas City Athletics to a 10-1 victory over the New York Yankees Wednesday night.

It was the A's second victory over the Yankees, who came into Kansas City with a slim grip on the American League lead.

Russian Trackmen Learn Of The Alibi

The Daily Record, The Stroudsburgs, Pa. — Thurs., Aug. 6, 1964

By Melvin Durslag
LOS ANGELES — The Minister of Sports of the Soviet Union hasn't yet requested our diagnosis of the case, but it is only decent that we inform him that smog alone did not do in the stalwarts of the USSR in the recent track meet here.

A doctor's report in Moscow has blamed atmospheric conditions in Los Angeles for the shabby showing of the Russians but the underlying cause is really deeper.

The Soviets were the unsuspecting victims of an imperialist plot. Tempted by lous of food, they ate their way out of the meet.

When the dinner bell sounded at the dormitory where they were encamped, the Russians hit that mess hall like the Green Bay Packers. What they missed at the table they picked up from vending machines outside.

The usual image of a track and field diet is strained baby food, poached eggs, wheat germ and hot tea, hardly consistent with the menus here. A typical day comprised the following:

Breakfast — 8 oz apple juice, 2 fried eggs with ground round steak, hot or cold cereal, toast with one butter, assorted jellies, honey, coffee or hot chocolate.

Lunch — Clear vegetable soup, 1/2 Hawaiian pineapple stuffed with fresh fruit and cottage cheese, ham on rye, 2 sherberts, 2 lemonades, 8 oz. each.

Dinner — Lettuce wedge with French dressing, T-Bone steak, baked potato with one butter, green vegetables, rye roll with one butter, double peach sundae, 2 milks, 1/2 pint each, or coffee.

When not on the menu, the following was placed on the tables at all times: Jello, cottage cheese, honey and fruit juice. The Soviets staggered from the dining room, looking for a spot to sleep off their gastronomic indulgence. Of course, the imperialists were offered the same diet, but with a knowing wink, ate more discreetly.

Apart from a Stanford Rose Bowl team whose 40-7 loss to Illinois was ascribed to the quaffing of chocolate malts before the game, few athletics have eaten their way into trouble in Los Angeles. Their problems have developed in other ways.

Heaven knows what may have happened to the Russians if they got to the Sunset Strip. The Detroit Lions got there one night, started a fight in a bar, beat the Rams on Sunday and resumed fighting — this time among themselves — on their airplane parked on the ramp at International Airport.

The Milwaukee Braves pushed each other into a swimming pool here one night. And if the Soviets feel they had trouble adjusting to life in Los Angeles, they should only check with Boris Belinsky. Even Kelson left here a failure. He couldn't get up as much of a gallop as the Russians.

Viewing conditions in the Kremlin today, you conclude unalterably that the Soviets are losing the cold war. More and more, their responses are becoming Westernized. Years ago, they retreated silently from international defeats, sealed all outlets and went solemnly to work.

They hadn't yet heard of a wondrous device called the alibi. Outside the Iron Curtain, guys were blaming losses on travel schedules, training conditions and officials. When the American Olympic trackmen got off to a weak start at Rome, they blamed it on a warmup meet in Switzerland and a train ride through the Alps.

The Russians are quick to learn. They lay an egg in Los Angeles and they trace it to headaches and drowsiness resulting from poison gases in the atmosphere.

Even the Soviet press has become help to Western ways. It isn't at all uncommon any more for critics there to put the knock on sports performers. Several writers lashed out at the Russian showing in Los Angeles, just as they did when the Soviet water polo team recently got into a jam for drinking, brawling and swiping towels, or whatever it was the brought it.

legally into the country from visits to Rumania and Yugoslavia.

At Palo Alto two years ago, we discussed critical writing with Moscow correspondents representing Tass and Trud.

With pardonable pride, one pointed out that there have been significant relaxations in the press in the way of editorial liberty.

"How high up can you knock?" we inquired.

"I wouldn't say to Khrushchev and the ministers," he said. "But just below that."

The country bears watching.

Scorched Tree Doesn't Mean Its Diseased

By George Abraham
DRY LEAVES — When the foliage of a shade tree takes on a brown, scorched appearance in spots, does it mean that the tree is diseased? Not necessarily. Most of the "scorching" of leaves is caused by dry weather.

Trees that normally produce nice green foliage usually start to show scorching about now, and the brown look gives the impression that the tree is sick or diseased. Some of the browning occurs along the leaf edges, some includes a half section of the leaves, and in some cases the entire leaf is scorched.

Badly affected leaves will drop, whereas mildly affected foliage often sticks. There are some diseases which cause browning of foliage, but in most cases this time of year you can blame the off-color on hot, dry weather.

Scorched foliage isn't too serious a problem, and if a tree is kept in good vigor through feeding and pruning it will bounce back and produce more leaves.

When a tree or shrub that habitually bears green leaves begins to produce foliage that is uniformly yellow, that's something else besides dry weather.

It can result from a number of causes, including poor soil drainage, girdling roots, toxic gases in soil, disease, insects, mechanical injury, or a lack of iron or nitrogen in the soil. Leaf yellowing from an iron shortage is called Chlorosis and is common in plants growing in alkaline soils. As we mentioned previously it can be corrected by soil treatment, adding equal parts of iron sulfate, finely ground sulfur, aluminum sulfate, or you can add Chelated iron to the foliage.

PHILODENDRONS: If your vine grows too fast, don't be afraid to nip the tip out and start a new plant in plain tap water. Philodendrons trained to a totem pole often grow above it.

When it does you have a choice of two things: Train the top to grow back down again, or you can cut the top out. If yours isn't bushy, I'd train it to grow back down again. Those brown snake-like growths you often see on philodendrons are useless and should be cut off. They are aerial roots, being helpful to plants growing on trees in the jungle.

Never cut an overgrown philodendron back completely as it's apt to shock the plant and kill it. Prune off unsightly leaves, keep foliage free of dust and apply a liquid plant food every 3 or 4 weeks for green color.

Philodendrons need intense though filtered light, or the leaves will grow smaller and smaller and vines become stringy. A weak, yellowish color in leaves in an otherwise healthy plant means too much light.

The Swiss Cheese plant (Monstera deliciosa) will not split if grown in too much shade. It needs more light than the true philodendron. All philodendrons like a uniform supply of moisture.

Soil mixture should be highly organic, so be sure to use plenty of rotted compost. A poor soil mixture reduces the size of the leaves.

TRIMMING SHRUBS: How should you handle a shrub or hedge which has grown tall and unsightly? Usually such plants have leaves only on the top and the centers are nothing but a bunch of sticks.

If you cut the tops back you have a row of sticks left. So what should be done? Usually you have to be brutal and cut the plants back to within 5 inches from the ground and get new growth started.

This will deprive you of your screen temporarily, but items such as forsythia, mockorange, privet and others have a way of sending up new growth fast, and you'll be able to manage it better. In the cutting process, if you see young shoots among the old growth, by all means leave it on. Just cut the old, thick unmanageable stalks.

When new growth comes in you can keep it trimmed the height you want without resorting to a power saw.

NO PEPPERS: How come all bush and no fruit for pepper plants? Is it because of poor pollination? No. Peppers pollinate themselves nicely, even if you do not set plants close together. Peppers set poorly when the loss of water from the tops is high. In other words, high temperature, low humidity, drying winds are good reasons for poor set, or for dropping of flowers and fruits.

Vinedale, being an early blooming type, often completes blooming before hot, drying weather sets in and thus shows less loss or has heavier fruiting than later varieties.

PETUNIAS: Here's one annual that does not like a dry soil. A lack of water causes the stems to become hardened, flowers to set fast and only a few blooms to form. Keep them watered copiously and you'll have a lush crop of blooms, even if you do not pick off the old seed pods and spent flowers. Tall, leggy petunias should be cut back about half to encourage new growth.

In fact any annual that has that down-at-the-heels look should be rejuvenated by pruning back. The secret is to get new growth and keep it lush, and to do this you must provide ample water, sometimes daily.

One or two good hard dryings will cause growth to be hardened, checked, and the plants will form seed pods up and down the stems.

Cutting spent blooms and seed pods of petunias, geraniums and other items in the flower box improves the growth and appearance of your plants. And don't forget to give them an occasional feeding of a liquid plant food.

FLOWERING ONIONS: The ornamental flowers of Allium (flowering onions) are better known to florists than to gardeners. Alliums are hardy, will grow in a loose, well-drained soil.

If you want to try a few this fall, prepare your soil first. Add coarse builder's sand to heavy soils and humus to sandy soils in form of peat, rotted sawdust, compost or leafmold. If heavy soil is lacking in humus, sand and humus, add both to it before planting.

Try a few bulbs of these ornamental onions and enjoy the blooms outdoors. They make fine long-keeping cut flowers of artistic grace. Even the dried flower heads make sensational winter ornaments.

Question Box

QUESTION OF THE WEEK—W. S. of Stroudsburg: "Can you tell me why my gladiolus bulbs do not produce flowers? I've taken these bulbs to three nurseries and have been told that the bulbs are fine and that there is no reason for their not flowering. What can be done to make them bloom?"

It's an unusual case where a healthy gladiolus bulb does not bloom. Some of our older varieties did have a tendency to grow "blind" or not bloom, but this was due to the fact that the variety did what commercial growers call "splitting up," that is, a nice plump bulb would throw our several stalks.

Many "eyes" (buds) on the corn would grow, resulting in many small bulbs when fall came, and no flower stalks.

I'm sure that's what's happening to your bulbs. They are producing a lot of small bulbs without any regard for flower stalks. Try growing some bulbs from the bulbets and get some younger stock growing. This should give you flowering bulbs.

However, if your gladioli start to bud, but do not open, this is due to a tiny pest (thrips). Spray or dust with Malathion, Sevin or DDT and you'll banish thrips.

W. R. of Brodheadsville: "I have a number of spots in our flower garden where some of my plants turn yellow, then finally wilt and won't grow. I've been told of many different materials to use, such as Sequestrene for iron, Ammonia sulfate for nitrogen, and a 10-10-10 fertilizer. I still lose my plants after resorting to all these. What does my soil or plants need?"

Your trouble is not due to a deficiency of nitrogen, iron or other elements, but rather indicates the presence of disease organisms, such as verticillium. No amount of plant foods will correct this. Try locating your flower bed in a different spot next year, since rotation is just about the best way to prevent build up of diseases in soils. In the home garden it's often difficult to rotate because of space limitation.

C. W. of Canadensis: "I have a rose bed which is not in a good spot. When is the best time to move it. How would you do it, and could we do it now?" I'd wait until spring to move roses. We've planted them in spring and fall, but find they come through better if transplanted in spring. Cut them back to 18 inches, and move them with as large a ball of roots and soil as possible. Keep them well watered, and do the job before buds break out. Place a plastic tent over it at transplanting time, removing it when buds have started to unfold.

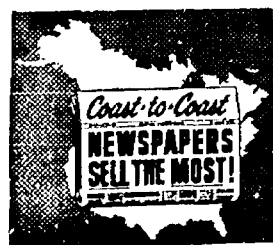

Lawyers Ask For Action On Bombs

NEW YORK (AP)—A New York attorney charged the Federal Aviation Administration Monday with "dragging its feet at the expense of American lives" in taking steps to curb the threat of bomb sabotage to air travel.

Edward M. Spenser, chairman of the aviation section of the American Trial Lawyers Association which is holding its annual convention here, made the criticism at a news conference.

Junk Books

BOMBAY, India (AP)—Maharashtra State's venture into textbook publication has turned into a red-faced disaster and 750,000 copies of its geography in four languages have been junked because the education department goofed between east and west. Three south India rivers that flow east into the Bay of Bengal are shown westward bound to the Arabian Sea. This and other howlers got the director of education suspended for negligence.

Robert G. Beers

Beers Accepts Highways Position

KRESGEVILLE — Robert Gene Beers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit A. Beers, Kresgeville, has accepted a position as a photogrammetrist with the Pennsylvania State Department of Highways.

Beers graduated last June from The Pennsylvania State University's Wilkes-Barre Center with an associate degree in engineering and a major in surveying technology. He was active in the surveying club and was a member of the yearbook staff.

Beers received his secondary education from Pleasant Valley High School, Brodheadsville, where he was a member of the yearbook staff and the senior play. He received the math award while in high school and was elected junior class president.

Planners Invited To Area Parley

SCRANTON — The Monroe County Planning Commission has been invited to attend a meeting Aug. 11 at 2 p.m. at the University of Scranton to discuss a nationwide outdoor recreation plan with representatives from a 12-county area in Northeastern Pennsylvania.

Joseph Lisicky, planning commission secretary, said last night the meeting would most likely send a representative to the meeting.

The State Dept. of Commerce is sponsoring the meeting in conjunction with the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation of the U.S. Dept. of Interior. The Dept. of Interior was directed by 1963 legislation to prepare a plan for a nationwide recreation project.

The Dept. of Commerce's Bureau of Community Development is handling the first phase of this survey in this section of the state.

The bureau said this phase of the survey will include an inventory of public recreation areas in the counties and various selected cities and townships throughout the state and nation.

Officials invited are from Monroe, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Montour, Pike Sullivan, Wayne, Susquehanna, Wyoming, Bradford, Columbia and Tioga counties.

Edwin A. Sites, regional supervisor of the Bureau of Community Development, who will direct the meeting, said the Land and Water Conservation Fund Bill now being considered by Congress will be discussed.

He pointed out, if this bill is available for planning, acquisition and development of state and local outdoor recreation areas.

Playground Seen Meeting Area's Needs

STROUDSBURG—Samuel O. Wells, III, director of athletics at the Stroud Union High School and supervisor of the Stroudsburg playground, addressed the Kiwanis Club of Stroudsburg, yesterday at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

The speaker's subject was the "Stroudsburg Playground and Its Operation."

In recalling that the Stroudsburg facility had its beginning 40 years ago as an undertaking of the Kiwanis Club, Wells lauded the local organization for its interest in the project.

The speaker said "with the unique combination of the pools, playground and park in a combined area, we are meeting the needs of the community by serving up to 3,000 people per week."

Alfred W. Munson was the program chairman. Guests attending the meeting were: Rev. Lionel Shanser, North Boston, N. Y.; Aubrey Price, Blakeslee; Harold Snyder, Philadelphia; Henry Goldman, Stroudsburg, and Dr. Frank Dracos, East Stroudsburg.

E-Burg Student Hears Talk On Ways To Gather News

(The following article was written by Linda Bosman, East Stroudsburg Joint High School senior. Miss Bosman is attending a six-week journalism seminar under the sponsorship of The Daily Record.)

BLAIRSTOWN, N.J. — "The obligation of any news media is to get the story as quickly as possible," said Charles R. Novitz.

Currently writing, editing, and co-producing ABC radio news political shows, Novitz spoke at a press conference to the aspiring student journalists attending the Blair Academy School for Journalism.

"Radio has come to occupy a special niche in the news spectrum," said Novitz. He believes radio's special role as a communication's medium lies in its ability to give faster and accurate news coverage as the newspapers, magazines, and television do.

Because ABC radio broadcasts are often only five minutes long, and ABC television newscasts usually last 15 minutes, the radio or television reporter must prepare for a career in either media by learning to get news rapidly and reporting it concisely and accurately.

Must Be Ready

"The reporter's deadline is as incontrovertible in radio as it is in TV," said Novitz. The reporter must have the news ready to be broadcast at the exact set time so there is no "dead air," the fear of all radio and television networks, he emphasized.

Novitz believes that an aspiring radio or television reporter should have from one to three years of newspaper experience for "manifold reasons."

He stressed: As a reporter a person can best learn the writing skills and gain a great amount of news reporting experience.

If he works at the editing desk he must through necessity improve his English usage.

As a headline writer one learns to condense the news, a difficult task of radio and television reporters.

Working as a wire service news receiver is excellent practice, in Novitz's opinion, because the "stuff" of the newspaper comes through in endless streams over the wire.

The job of those working in that department is to select the sentences and paragraphs that will be printed in the paper. They must distinguish which news gives the most important information in the least number of words, as must the news reporter on radio and television.

"Selectivity is one of the most important factors in a news reporter's job," asserted Novitz.

Novitz said that one should become acquainted with radio and television men in his area, because they can give him advice and guidance in pursuing a career in those fields of communications.

Novitz also stressed the need for extensive reading in the fields of radio and television reporting. He did not recommend "how to succeed books" but those which would give one background and understanding of the "fast news media."

He pointed out that if one understands and becomes familiarized with a field he can change more readily in meeting the demands of an expanding, changing field.

PMVB Seeks Events For State Booklet

STRONDSBURG — Information on events scheduled for October, November and December is being sought by the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau for inclusion in the state Department of Commerce brochure, Pennsylvania Calendar of Events.

John E. Calhoun, executive secretary of the bureau, said the brochure is published quarterly and distributed by the department's Travel Development Bureau.

He said the listing has a wide circulation both in and out of the state, and reports significant events in tourist areas.

Many events planned for the Poconos during this period have not been brought to his attention yet, Calhoun reported. He asked that anyone who knew of activities of general interest get in touch with the vacation bureau.

Snyder Honored For 24 Service

HARRISBURG — Harold E. Snyder, manager of the borough of Stroudsburg, received the Thomas F. Christwaite Award recently for 24 years of borough service.

The award, given by the Pennsylvania State Assn. of Boroughs, is named for the founder and first president of the organization.

Bing's Wife Kathy Next At Playhouse

MOUNTAINHOME — Bing Crosby's own special star, Kathryn Grant Crosby will be at Pocono Playhouse for one week (August 10 through August 15) in Samuel Taylor's beguiling comedy hit, "Sabrina Fair."

Taylor's comedy is a witty encounter with the lavish world of North Shore society suddenly set aglow with a sparkling Cinderella romance.

Harold J. Kennedy who will be featured with Mrs. Crosby has also staged the production. He has surrounded his lovely young star with a fine Broadway cast which will include John Lupton and the beloved character actress Nancy Cushman in the role of Maude Larabee.

The gowns to be worn by Mrs. Crosby will be from the house of Jean Louise.

The gracious North Shore country home and terrace will be created by the talented young designer Jack Bates. A former staff designer for NBC, Jack Bates has over 180 productions to his credit. This is the fifth season he has been on the staff of the Pocono Playhouse. Following the Kathryn Crosby engagement, Mrs. Rowena Stevens, manager-producer of the Pocono Playhouse will bring another major star to the area. Imogene Coca and King Donovan will co-star in the Broadway comedy, "A Rainy Day in New York."

In this Imogene finds herself trying her hand at running a big business. It will open for a one week engagement on Monday night, August 17.

Now — enjoy the drama and adventure of DOCTOR KILDARE — every day on the comic page of the Daily Record.

Federal Records Moved Into State

MECHANICSBURG, Pa. (AP) — A mountain of government paper records weighing four million pounds is being moved from Cameron, Va., to Mechanicsburg, Pa.

The federal records center, a tenant activity at the U.S. Naval supply depot, was designated as the overflow records depository for large collections of records in the Washington, D. C., area.

The information office of the supply depot said Monday that a total of 81,000 cubic feet of records are involved in the current transfer, pushing the local center's storage close to one million cubic feet.

Grain Handlers Tie Up Shipments

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — A month-old strike of grain handlers at Duluth-Superior has put a cork in the normal funneling of grain beginning to pour from bumper crops in the Dakotas and western Minnesota.

Firms which operate 11 terminal elevators in the Great Lakes ports and the American Federation of Grain Millers met for five straight days last week but recessed their talks Saturday at the same impasse as when the strike began July 2.

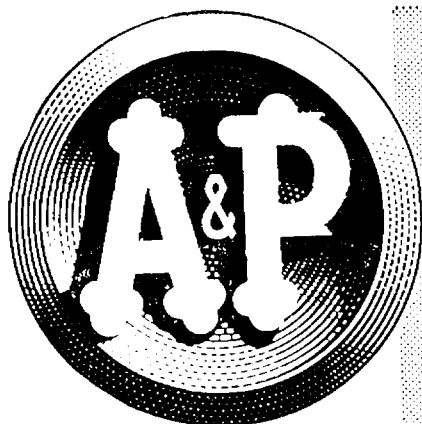

Sources indicated new talks may start Thursday or Friday.

Cottage Fire Snuffed Quickly

BUCK HILL FALLS — Quick action by the Barrett Volunteer Fire Co. prevented serious damage to cottage 236, Buck Hill Falls. The cottage is owned by Raymond Price.

According to George Huguenin, fire chief, a fire of unknown origin was discovered burning in leaves under the cottage at 6:45 p.m. Because of the quick action of the fire company, the blaze was put out without further damage.

No one was injured and the firemen returned to the firehouse in time for their regular weekly meeting.

Visitors Expected To Eye Roseto 'Hearty'

ROSETO — Mayor George Giaquinto this week told Roseto Borough Council he anticipated an influx of visitors to the borough. He proposed the council draw up a brochure on Roseto as soon as possible.

The mayor reported on the University of Oklahoma heart study made in Roseto last year. The study brought notoriety to the little Pennsylvania town.

Increased interest in Roseto has been generated by recent newspaper stories, Giaquinto said. A television show is to be presented this fall by WCAU-TV on life in Roseto.

Reports Distorted

Councilman Leonard Cascia no said some of the reports on Roseto were distorted. He said some tourists come to Roseto expecting to find 600 - pound individuals sitting on their front porch eating lard.

Mayor Giaquinto also said Roseto should appeal a decision

Chinese Red Asks Asylum

NEW YORK (AP)—A 24-year-old former Communist Chinese diplomat arrived yesterday to accept political asylum in the United States and said there are many other Chinese eager to defect.

by Judge Clinton Budd Palmer. Judge Palmer ruled against Roseto in its argument with Washington Township on the garbage disposal problem.

But the council solicitor, Philip Ruggiero, advised it would be unwise to appeal the decision. No action was taken.

In Poor Shape

Vito Trigliani, chairman of the property committee, reported that the fire siren tower in Borough Hall is in poor shape and should be repaired immediately.

Leonard Romano, council president, instructed the property committee to conduct a survey and report the results at the next council meeting.

Daniel Crufa, chairman of the safety committee, reported another accident had occurred at the corner of Columbus St. and Rt. 191. He said something must be done. Romano directed the solicitor to write to the state highway department asking them to install a stoplight in place of the blinker now at the corner.

The Royal Canoe Club, London, was founded in 1955.

In other business the council.

— Heard a report on the recent meeting at Bangor on garbage disposal. The president advised all councilmen to attend the next meeting Aug. 10.

— Rejected all bids received on the construction of a storm sewer between Liberty Ave. and Jewel St.

— Voted to table the hiring of a consulting engineer to do a feasibility study of storm and sanitary sewers and a sewage treatment plant for the borough.

Tilwick Wars On Vandals, Speeders In Hamilton Twp.

SAYLORSBURG — "Why don't more people attend these township supervisors' meetings?" Wilford Tilwick asked this week's Hamilton Twp. meeting. "I'll guarantee you one thing — there'll be more people attending meetings from here on," he declared.

"There is a definite need for law enforcement and police protection in Saylorburg and Hamilton Twp.," Tilwick said. "Just look out the front here and look at the bad driving habits and speeding that goes on," he pointed.

"We've already had one death caused by a hit and run driver who came out of the drive-in theater. And, what about all these people who are over 21 who come into this area and buy alcoholic beverages and then give them to minors?"

Toss Bottles

"That's not bad enough. They have to ride around in their cars, speeding and throwing bottles and cans around — sometimes knocking out lights and windows," Tilwick said.

Also, he said, "I'm going to help see that the Pennsylvania State Police get the proper authority and power. This will help insure that when a charge is made and the police come — the charges won't be dropped or told it's a relative of mine go home."

"I'm going to attend every meeting until I accomplish this. It's terrible all the late hours that these children keep and the late hour vandalism that goes on here," Tilwick said.

Howard Buzzard, Hamilton Twp. Supervisor said, "I'd say you're right. But you don't know when these hoodlums are going to strike."

Ray L. Mackes, secretary of the supervisors commented, "I think we could use a part-time patrolman."

Supervisor Robert Haney said, "We should have State or township police protection. I'm not a leader, but I'll go along with what the supervisors decide is the best thing to do."

Tilwick returned fire saying, "I don't want to call an undertaker after someone is dead. We should have the police patrolling the township now to prevent it before it happens and drive the vandals out. I intend to start now. A mill or two increase in taxes should do it," he added.

The question was raised, "How will we support a patrolman?"

Haney answered, "Some people can't pay their taxes now. You (Tilwick) can find a way to make more money — these people can't."

It was noted that the township is growing. Tax assessment in the township has increased from a million and a half to over three million dollars Albert Arnold, Hamilton Twp. tax collector said. "This needs protection," Arnold pointed out.

Seeks Club Backing

Tilwick also said he would speak to members of the West End Democratic Club and seek their backing.

He added, "I don't want my children growing up with this type of thing going on."

In other action, the supervisors viewed a drawing of property in the township. The plan concerns the use of land and streets surrounding Saylorburg Lake. Fred Fankiel, a Saylorburg contractor, is urging the township to adopt and maintain certain sections and streets in surrounding house developments.

He also presented a petition signed by the residents urging the supervisors to go ahead with the street adoption plan.

Took No Action

The supervisors, however, took no action on the plan. The development site will be studied, and dimensions . . . space requirements studied and reported at the next supervisors' meeting in the Saylorburg fire hall September 7 at 7:30 p.m.

Demos Critical Of Scranton Plan

HARRISBURG (AP)—Democrats are critical of Gov. Scranton's announced plan to move the office of the State Workmen's Insurance Fund from Harrisburg to his home town of Scranton.

"This is just a prelude to another fattening of the state payroll," Democratic State Chairman Otto B. Morse said in a statement under Gov. Scranton's political system is being death another harsh blow."

The administration announced last week the office would be moved to Scranton near the first of the year.

The 15 workers now employed by it in Harrisburg would be given first call on the Scranton jobs, and those who could not make the move would find other jobs in Harrisburg.

Morse accused Scranton of approving the move so that he would have more patronage jobs to hand out in his home area.

Killian Resigns State Post

HARRISBURG (AP) — John D. Killian of Harrisburg resigned as deputy state attorney general to run as the Democratic candidate for State Senate in Dauphin County.

Killian said his resignation would become effective Aug. 14. He was selected Thursday night by the Dauphin County Democratic Executive Committee to oppose Republican William B. Lentz of Millersburg, the man who upset Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, powerful president pro tempore of the Senate, in the April 28 primary.

Democrats elected Edward J. Brown in the primary, but Brown later withdrew from the race.

Log Of Eastburg RD 1 Girl Who Took 4-Day Canoe Trip

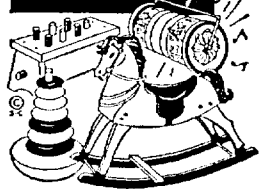

(The following article was written by Martha Levin of East Stroudsburg RD 1. It describes a four-day canoe trip taken by her and 15 Cadette Girl Scouts on the Susquehanna River. Martha, a member of the Mariner Unit from a Camp Archibald (affiliated with the Girl Scouts of America) tells of the experiences during the voyage.)

School. We had a 10 o'clock snack and saw them paddling around the bend, three to a canoe. From then on they paddled along with us, until we reached the Tunkhannock Bridge, which was our goal for the day. We got there about 12:30, had lunch and then hiked 2 miles to Shadow Brook which is a resort. Ice cream and soda again. Back to the bridge and on to the river again to Camp Onawanda, where we were to be picked up and taken back to Camp Archibald by bus. Camp Onawanda was always around the next bend... we got there later than we had planned because of rocks that almost every canoe got caught on. This was the toughest part of the whole trip because of the rocks and because the wind was against us.
